PRICE CONTROL BILL IS PASSED BY SENATE

May Invited To Testify At Hearing

Makes Stipulations For His Appearance Before Investigators

TWO REFUSE TO WAVER CONSTITUTIONAL RIGHTS

Mead Says Kentuckian Is Trying To Conduct Committee

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP)—The question whether Rep. May (D-Ky.) will appear before a Senate committee investigating munitions combine was still up in the air tonight after two other prospective witnesses had been excused because they refused to waive their constitutional immunity.

There were these developments bearing on May, who is chairman of the House Military Committee and who, according to witnesses, was active in helping the munitions makers in their dealings with the War department.

1. The Senate War Investigating Committee invited him to appear. Some members talked of subpoenaing him if he refused.

2. May replied that he would consider the invitation "most seriously" but stipulated that he have the right to cross-examine witnesses, use committee subpoena powers, obtain additional records, and call witnesses of his own.

Contrary To Practice

3. Chairman Mead (D-N.Y.) of the Senate committee told reporters these stipulations were contrary to usual practices of legislative investigations, and expressed the opinion that the hearing should not be turned into a court.

Earlier in the day, Dr. Henry Carson, promoter of the munitions combine, and Benjamin F. Fields, Washington Press agent, had refused to waive their constitutional protection against being required to answer questions which might incriminate them. When they took that position, the committee dismissed them and declined to take their prepared testimony.

May wrote Mead that he wanted assurance that "the public x x x may be given the full benefit of the purpose for which you assert you are holding public hearings in this matter at all."

May set up his proviso in answering a letter. Mead sent him earlier in the day saying that May, in an executive session June 4, "did not furnish the full, complete and accurate facts" the committee should know.

May has denied in a public statement that he profited personally from relations with the munitions combination—which Mead has called "a war profiteering paper empire."

Mead said his committee would meet tomorrow to act on May's reply to his letter inviting an appearance.

Wants To Conduct Investigation

Giving his own personal views Mead told reporters that "May wants to conduct our investigation. He said he knew of no instance in which a legislative investigating committee had accorded an individual all the rights May sought."

"We'll give him (May) ample opportunity to explain in great detail every allegation, every charge and every insinuation made against him during the progress of our examination of witnesses," Mead said.

But he added that would be done only if the congressman "will agree to answer the questions and otherwise undergo the examination which is customary to the conduct of legislative investigating committees."

Jury Fixes Punishment At Death In Electric Chair For Gusler

MARTINSVILLE, Va., July 12 (AP)—A jury of 12 men, including a black man, today fixed the punishment at death in the electric chair for Gusler, a middle-aged furniture plant worker who covertly killed a fellow worker two years ago and pleaded he lived in fear of the consequences, was found guilty by a jury today of the dynamite bomb death of J. Russell Smith and it fixed his punishment at death in the electric chair.

The Henry County Circuit Court jury deliberated only an hour and a half in reaching its verdict in accord with the pleas of the prosecution for a guilty of first degree murder decision with execution as the penalty.

Defense counsel made formal motion to set aside the verdict and Judge Joel W. Flood did not immediately pass sentence upon the 52-year-old defendant.

Will Hear Motions

Judge Flood said he would hear the motions next Tuesday.

Gusler received the jury's verdict with the same unemotional expression with which he sat throughout the trial. His son, who was recent-

FBI Called In Produce Truck Case

Driver Of Truck Was Not Union Member, Representative Roe Says

BALTIMORE, July 12 (AP)—Rep. Roe (D-Md.) said tonight he had asked the FBI to investigate whether the refusal of members of a union to unload for nearly 24 hours a produce truck of one of his constituents constituted a violation of the Hobbs Anti-Labor Racketeering act.

Roe said that the constituent, William P. Hearn, Salisbury produce shipper and farmer, told him the truck was not unloaded because his driver was not a member of a union.

The Maryland congressman said that Hearn told him that union members refused to unload the cargo until the driver had filed his application for membership in the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers of America (AF) at Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Vilas Shook, secretary-treasurer of a Wilkes-Barre local of the Union, was quoted by the Baltimore Sun as denying pressure had been put on the driver to join any union and described as spontaneous the action of the union membership in refusing to unload the cargo and adding:

"If any more produce is going to be sent to Wilkes-Barre, the drivers must carry teamsters' books if union members are going to handle it."

Shook said the drivers application would be returned to him.

Roe reported that Hearn said he had instructed the driver to file the application as a last resort when all other efforts to get the truck unloaded failed.

House Will Vote

On British Loan Measure Today

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP)—Russia loomed large in the closing House debate tonight on the $3,750,000,000 British loan, as proponents declared the crucial vote tomorrow will determine whether the world will look to America or Moscow for leadership.

The long debate ended with Rep. Clare Booth Luce (R-Conn.) declaring that Britain is "America's natural buffer state" against aggression—that "she is the oldest and most to be trusted ally."

Previously, the Democratic leader, Rep. McCormack of Massachusetts, had told the House the whole world would be watching its vote and if America turns to isolationism many nations will enter the orbit of the Soviet Union.

Many House members applauded when Rep. Wadsworth (R-N.Y.) called for approval of the huge credit as a boon to foreign commerce, free enterprise and world peace.

"We have an opportunity to lead a free world," Wadsworth declared before the largest attendance in the House since the debate began four days ago.

"Let us act here in a way that our children and our grandchildren will know that we were strong in righteousness."

On the eve of the crucial decision both sides claimed victory. Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) predicted the ratification bill will pass. The Senate approved it May 10 by 46 to 34.

Speaking for the opposition, Rep. Landis (R-Ind.) declared that "this loan is more likely to promote war than it is to preserve peace." He voiced confidence, after a poll of Republican members, that it will be defeated.

The first test probably will come on an amendment by Rep. Dirksen (R-Ill.) proposing that Britain put up full security for any funds. The amendment likely will follow suggestions of Jesse Jones, former Commerce secretary, who has termed the credit in its present form a subsidy for the British Empire.

Stole A Kiss

All the liquor had been drunk, Gusler said, and while Smith went out to a parked car at Gusler's request, the older man put his arm around Mrs. Smith and stole a kiss.

The talk around the "block" was that those armed with pistols and a sub-machine gun got upwards of $50,000 when they invaded the club. Police have found 11 men who acknowledged being in the club at the time. They listed losses totaling less than $9,000.

Never-the-less, said the mayor, "the taxpayers of the city maintain this department and are entitled to have these matters cleared up."

Police Commissioner Hamilton R. Atkinson has said there has been no fault in his department's handling of the case. He asserted everything possible has been done by the police in light of reluctance of the victims to report the incident.

The Baltimore grand jury meantime examined three policemen who were on beats in the vicinity of the athletic club the day of the holdup.

It also recalled Police Inspector William J. Forrest, who obtained the first official report 48 hours after it had been a morsel of gossip throughout the "block," Baltimore's downtown tenderloin belt.

Russian Block Of Australian Atom Plan Fails

Evatt Proposes Creating Three Committees To Draft Control

NEW YORK, July 12 (AP)—Soviet Russia fought for more than three hours today to block Australian proposals for machinery to draft an atomic control plan, but was defeated on two measures and finally gave up on third proposal.

The wordy battle took place in a stormy three-hour closed meeting of the Working Committee of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission which heard the chairman, Australian Foreign Minister Herbert V. Evatt, reject Russia's atomic control plan as "impossible."

Evatt, reporting on the work of a six-nation sub-committee, proposed a broad international treaty to put into effect an atomic control system similar to that advocated by Bernard M. Baruch, the United States member.

Takes Issue With Report

One of the delegates, who did not wish to be identified, said Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko took issue with Evatt's report at one point because the Australian failed to mention Russia as one of the nations which had been helpful in the sub-committee's work.

The real fight did not begin, however, until after Evatt had completed his report and Baruch had made a short speech endorsing his recommendations for an autonomous atomic control agency and the surrender of the veto power on atomic questions by the five big powers.

Evatt then proposed the creation of three committees to start work at once drafting a control plan on the basis of principles laid down so far in discussions both in public and private meetings.

Gromyko was said to have protested almost every point in Evatt's proposals, accounting for the lengthy session. At one point Evatt, obviously annoyed by the long discussions, told the Soviet delegate he was "talking too much."

"Not half as much as you are," Gromyko retorted.

Sources close to Evatt said the Australian delegate felt very strongly about Gromyko's strenuous opposition to what he considered minor points.

The working committee finally voted to establish three 12-nation committees. The first was a committee to make recommendations on measures of control, sanctions and observance of measures to insure the prevention of the use of atomic energy for destructive purposes.

This was approved by a vote of 10 to 2, with Russia and Finland voting against it.

New Committee Created

A second committee was created to study legal questions, and will handle such complex questions as the relationship between the atomic control agency and the Security Council. This will include the controversial veto question. Russia stood alone in opposition to this, with Poland abstaining.

The third committee will be made (Continued on Page 7, Col. 6)

McKeldin, O'Connor

Called By Jury In Robbery Probe

BALTIMORE, July 12 (AP)—The grand jury today called Governor Herbert R. O'Connor and Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin to a special night session of its inquiry into the holdup of the Century Athletic Club July 4.

McKeldin a few hours earlier had ordered a citizens' investigation of Baltimore's Police Department, which is under control of the state administration headed by Governor O'Connor.

"There is a feeling of uneasiness among the people in our city concerning the situation that exists here and the manner in which the Police department has been functioning," said the mayor.

"I propose to appoint a citizens' committee for the purpose of examining into this entire situation."

In ordering the inquiry, the mayor acknowledged he has no legal control over the police, since the department is run by the state and the police commissioner appointed by the governor.

Never-the-less, said the mayor, "the taxpayers of the city maintain this department and are entitled to have these matters cleared up."

Police Commissioner Hamilton R. Atkinson has said there has been no fault in his department's handling of the case. He asserted everything possible has been done by the police in light of reluctance of the victims to report the incident.

The Baltimore grand jury meantime examined three policemen who were on beats in the vicinity of the athletic club the day of the holdup.

MISS TERESA LEARY, 18, of Malden, Mass., is being detained in jail at Elkton, Md., for her father, Jeremiah J. Leary, a customs officer, and two policemen with a warrant specifically charging his daughter with being a "stubborn child." She went to Elkton to get married, but has now changed her mind and says she wants to go home. (See story.)

REDHEADED GIRL CALLS WEDDING OFF, WANTS TO RETURN TO MOTHER

Massachusetts College Sophomore Drives To Elkton To Marry

By ELEANOR GRIESEMER

ELKTON, Md., July 12 (AP)—Teresa Leary, 18-year-old, Regis college sophomore who drove here from Malden, Mass., to marry a Boston navy veteran, decided today to call it off.

"I want to be with my mother," said the petite redhead. "I'm worried about all the distress I've caused."

"Terry" and 23-year-old Robert Nilsen, a mechanic, were detained by Elkton police on a request of Massachusetts officers.

On their way to Elkton are two policemen and "Terry's" father, Jeremiah J. Leary of (211 Watts street) Malden. They had two warrants obtained in Malden district court, one of them charging Teresa with being a "stubborn child" and the other accusing Nilsen of using an automobile without authority.

Common Accusation

(Being a "stubborn child" is a common accusation in Massachusetts, where children legally are in custody of their parents until they are 21. The usual procedure in such cases is to place the child on probation under parental supervision.)

"Terry" said today she still may decide to marry Nilsen, but later on. At the moment she is interested only in getting "this mess straightened out" and going "back home."

O'CONNOR IS SILENT ON DEMANDS FOR SPECIAL SESSION ON RENTS

Asks Labor Group For Specific Facts That Grave Emergency Exists

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 12 (AP)—Governor O'Connor remained silent tonight on demands for a special legislative session to deal with rent control after meeting today with union labor representatives.

The governor conferred with an 11-man delegation which urged "definite action by the legislature that will protect us from unscrupulous landlords and owners of property."

W. David Cordie, delegation spokesman, in answer to O'Connor's request for specific facts "that show a grave emergency exists," said, "The governor will have the facts and immediately."

The spokesman told the governor that labor in general felt "fair rent committees will not go far enough to protect our clientele as well as the public in general."

Suggestion Rejected

The group rejected a suggestion from the governor that a commission be named to study the need for a special legislative session to deal with rent control.

"A rent control act has never been passed in Maryland, so it would be the first time the state told an owner of property, you may charge (Continued on Page 7, Col. 2)

35-Year-Olds May Get Call For Army Service

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP)—The War department said tonight that in the future it "may be necessary to consider the induction of men through age 35" but that it had made no recommendation to that end to President Truman.

The press memorandum was issued as a follow-up to last night's public declaration by Col. George A. Irwin, chief of Selective Service's Demobilization division, that the army does not want any men past 35, and word from another official close to draft policy that the War department had recommended that the president raise the induction age limit.

Today that official, advised of what the War department said, told reporters that as late as yesterday afternoon he understood the letter to the president had gone forward. Asked not to be quoted by name, he said all Selective Service plans were based on the change from 29 to 35 in the top draft age.

The War department's memorandum today said:

"In any future calls on Selective Service for personnel the War department will specify that the call be filled, in so far as possible, by men within the 19 to 29 age bracket."

"If in the future it is found that there are insufficient personnel with-

Foreign Ministers End Meeting Until Conference

Molotov Remains Opposed To Central Administration For Germany

By JOSEPH DYNAN

PARIS, July 12 (AP)—The four-power foreign ministers' council adjourned its 28-day session tonight after Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov stood firm against any moves that would have led to immediate settlement of Austrian or German problems, a British source said.

The Soviet minister blocked an American proposal that would have established a special commission to draft a peace treaty with Austria and declined to permit the authorization of a commission to draw up a definition of German assets in Austria, the British informant said.

Bevin Presides

Molotov further refused to support a plan to set up a central administration for all Germany except the Saar basin.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin presided at the night session which wound up the current meeting of the ministers of the United States, Great Britain, France and Russia.

His gavel dropped at 9:10 p. m. (3:10 p. m. EST) and he commented:

"Well, we shall meet again at the peace conference."

During the discussion of the German question, Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, declared Russia had already received $14,000,000,000 in reparations from Germany. Molotov earlier in the week asked for $10,000,000,000 in war damages.

American sources said Molotov's opposition to making any immediate decision on the Austrian situation was closely allied to his charge that several hundred thousand displaced persons who have fascist and pro-fascist backgrounds still are in Austria.

These persons must be deported, Molotov has reiterated. The other ministers previously indicated they would support such a deportation move.

At the close of the discussion on Germany, President Georges Bidault of France said he would bring up the question of the next meeting of the ministers—a special one in the fall—and would demand the right of other nations interested in the problem to sit in with the four-power ministers.

Names Interested Nations

Bidault named Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Denmark as the interested nations. United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes said he would support Bidault's proposal.

The French government earlier this week, at the instruction of the foreign ministers' council, sent out invitations to 17 other nations to participate in a general European peace conference to be convened here July 29.

CIO-AFL Dispute

Of Longshoremen Ties Up Shipping

NEW YORK, July 12 (AP)—Twelve merchant ships—four of them waiting to sail with UNRRA relief supplies—were stalled in New York harbor today by a CIO-AFL tug of war which threatened to paralyze East Coast shipping.

The twenty-five other vessels temporarily were immobilized as AFL seamen, said by union spokesmen to be 5,000 strong, left their jobs to picket CIO-manned vessels in retaliation against a CIO boycott of AFL-manned ships on the West Coast.

AFL longshoremen immediately halted loading operations. AFL crews in Boston and Baltimore had orders from Paul Hall, chairman of the AFL Labor Maritime Council of greater New York, to stage similar demonstrations.

Police details along Manhattan piers were doubled but no clashes had been reported.

The trouble started three days ago when Harry Bridges, whose CIO longshoremen are as strong on the West Coast as AFL bodies in Atlantic ports, ordered his men to refuse to unload an AFL-manned ship at Coos Bay, Ore.

Hall said Bridges had demanded that AFL crews be replaced by men from the committee for maritime unity, composed of seven CIO organizations.

Hall said "Bridges has declared war on the AFL Maritime Union and we will not sit idly by. We will tie up their ships in every port and down the coast."

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach last night ordered a labor conciliator to San Francisco to bring the parties together for a conference in hopes of settling the dispute.

Joseph Curran, president of the National Maritime Union (N.M.U.), said tonight there would be no retaliation against the AFL by CIO men in the East. "The N. M. U. is not involved in any jurisdictional dispute with the AFL," he said.

"It's strictly a matter between unions out on the West Coast," Curran asserted. "We don't see why they're picketing us here. But we do not intend to have any trouble."

Noted Flier Wages Fight To Recover

President Truman Wires Hughes Words Of Encouragement

LOS ANGELES, July 12 (AP)—Howard Hughes, making no progress in his struggle for life from critical air crash injuries, received a telegram tonight from President Truman saying "I feel sure you will win this fight."

"I am watching eagerly all the reports concerning you," the chief executive told the wealthy airplane designer and film producer, critically hurt when his experimental craft, crashed Sunday on its maiden test flight.

"I feel sure that you will win this fight. With every good wish, Harry E. Truman."

The condition of Hughes, who apparently had been holding his own since he was hospitalized, took a turn for the worse last night and his physicians reported late today "no change."

Hughes has received telegrams from hundreds of friends and notables, including Mayor William O'Dwyer, of New York City; Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago; Eddie Rickenbacker, William Randolph Hearst, Jr., and many film celebrities.

In a medical bulletin in late afternoon, some 20 hours since the last one, Drs. Verne R. Mason and Lawrence Chaffin declared:

"A consultation has been held by the doctors engaged on the case and further X-ray photographs of the functions lung have been made. Everything possible is being done."

Last night, after hearing the film and aircraft executive whisper explanation of his spectacular plane wreck, Dr. Mason acknowledged that he did not know whether his patient could recover.

The 40-year-old flier was testing his company's new photo-reconnaissance plane, destined for the army, last Sunday when his propeller broke and sent him plummeting down in Beverly Hills, starting a fire which burned one home and damaged two others. He was dragged badly injured from the wreckage.

Throughout the day doctors were in consultation, while bedside reports told of Hughes sleeping fitfully.

Is Stop-Gap Bill

The House had sent to the Senate a stop-gap bill to revive the old price law unchanged until July 20 while Congress tried to work out a permanent law. The measure the Senate approved shortly before 2 p. m. EST, took the form of an amendment to the House bill.

Passed 13 days after OPA's official lapse, the Senate measure sharply revises the manufacturers' and dealers' pricing formulas to which President Truman made pointed objections in vetoing the original extension bill, June 28.

But it would exempt from all price control:

1. Livestock, meat, poultry and products processed from them.

2. Milk and dairy products, such as butter and cheese.

3. All grains, and livestock and poultry feed made from grain.

4. Tobacco, cigars and cigarettes.

5. Cottonseed, soybeans and their derivatives, including vegetable oils.

6. Petroleum and its products, including gasoline, unless the supply is insufficient to meet the domestic demand.

The new bill's pricing formula for producers, manufacturers and processors appeared satisfactory to the White House and OPA. It provides that the ceilings must be high enough to cover, on an industry-wide basis, the average costs prevailing in 1940, plus the average industry-wide increases in costs since then. Several qualifying clauses in this section give OPA considerable discretion.

But what Mr. Truman gained there, he lost in the imposing list of price control exemptions written into the bill.

What Mr. Truman objected to as "cost-plus" amendments for automobile and appliance dealers remained in the new measure.

He would get the year's extension of OPA authority for which he asked but the agency would not receive the additional $250,000,000 in subsidies which he urged. As with the vetoed measure, the new bill makes $1,000,000,000 in subsidies available.

The independent decontrol board to which the president said he did not object was retained in the Senate measure as was what he termed the "unsound split of authority" over decontrols between the OPA and the Federal Reserve Board.

Pepper's Proposal Crushed

Rent controls, with which the president was satisfied in the vetoed measure, remained in the new bill but with an added proviso that (Continued on Page 7, Col. 2)

International Air Traffic Thrown

Into Turmoil By Order Of CAA

NEW YORK, July 12 (AP)—International air traffic was thrown into turmoil today with the CAA order grounding all constellations planes for 30 days.

Travel plans of thousands of passengers were disrupted. Pan-American World Airlines estimated 10,000 on its lists alone were affected.

It forced airlines to readjust flight schedules with substitute equipment and to dispatch "rescue" planes to pick up stranded passengers scattered across the globe.

Passengers flying international routes were halted temporarily at Gander, Newfoundland; Stephensville, New Brunswick; Shannon, Eire; and Roberts Field, Liberia.

The Civil Aeronautics Administration order was issued last night pending an inquiry into the fatal crash of a trans world airlines plane at Reading, Pa., yesterday in which five crewmen were killed and a sixth injured.

It was the second accident in a month to a constellation produced by the Lockheed Aircraft Company and capable of carrying 40 to 60 passengers. The earlier accident occurred June 18 when a constellation grounded all constellations planes for 30 days.

The order to ground the planes hit Pan American World Airlines hardest, forcing the line to cancel 24 weekly flights. It operated 12 constellations.

TWO REFUSE TO WAVER CONSTITUTIONAL RIGHTS

Mead Says Kentuckian Is Trying To Conduct Committee

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP)—
The question whether Rep. May (D-Ky.), will appear before a Senate Committee investigating munitions combine was still up in the air yesterday after two other prospective witnesses had been excused because they refused to waive their constitutional immunity.

There were these developments bearing on May, who is chairman of the House Military Committee and who, according to witnesses, was active in helping the munitions makers in their dealings with the War department:

1. The Senate War Investigating Committee invited him to appear.
Some members of the subcommittee insisted he refuse.

2. May replied that he would consider the invitation "most seriously" but stipulated that he would have the right to cross-examine witnesses, use committee subpoena powers to obtain additional records, and call witnesses of his own.

Contrary To Practice

3. Chairman Mead (D-N.Y.), of the Senate committee told reporters these stipulations were contrary to usual practices of legislative investigation and expressed the opinion that the hearing should not be turned into a court.

Earlier in the day, Dr. Henry Garrison, promoter of the munitions combine, and Benjamin F. Fields, Washington Press agent, had refused to waive their constitutional protection against being required to answer questions which might in-criminate them. When they took that position, the committee dismissed them and declined to take their prepared testimony.

May wrote Mead that he wanted assurance that "the public x x x will be given the full benefit of the purpose for which you assert you are holding public hearings in this matter at all."

May set up his province in answering a letter Mead sent him earlier in the day saying that May,
in an executive session June 4,
"did not furnish the full, complete and accurate facts" the committee should know.

May has denied in a public statement that he profited personally from relations with the munitions combine—which Mead has called "a war profiteering paper empire."

Mead said his committee would meet tomorrow to act on May's reply to his letter inviting an appearance.

Wants To Conduct Investigation

Giving his own personal views Mead told reporters that "May wants to conduct our investigation."
He said he knew of no instance in which a legislative investigating committee had accorded an individual all the rights May sought.

"We'll give him (May) ample opportunity to explain in great detail every allegation, every charge and every insinuation made against him during the progress of our examination of witnesses," Mead said.

But he added that would be done only if the congressman "will agree to answer the questions and otherwise to the examination which is customary to the conduct of legislative investigating committees."

MARTINSVILLE, Va., July 12 (AP)— middle-aged furniture plant mechanic who covered his face with his hands when he heard the verdict, re-electric chair for Gusler, a 32-year-old man who was charged with the murder of a woman and her two daughters. The jury deliberated for a full day and reached its verdict

Defense counsel made formal mo-asked for a new trial. The judge refused the motion and sentenced Gusler to death in the electric chair at 12 o'clock.

FBI Called In Produce Truck Case

Driver Of Truck Was Not Union Member, Representative Roe Says

BALTIMORE, July 12 (AP)—Rep.
Roe (D-Md.) said tonight he had asked the FBI to investigate whether the refusal of members of a union to unload for nearly 24 hours a produce truck of one of his constituents constituted a violation of the Hobbs Anti-Labor Racketeering act.

Roe said that the constituent,
William P. Hearn, Salisbury produce shipper and farmer, told him the truck was not unloaded because his driver was not a member of a union.

The Maryland congressman said that Hearn told him that union members refused to unload the cargo until the driver had filed his application for membership in the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers of America (AF of W).

At Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Vilas Shook, secretary-treasurer of a Wilkes-Barre local of the union, was quoted by the Baltimore Sun as denying pressure had been put on the driver to join any union and described as spontaneous the action of the union membership in declining to unload the cargo and adding:

"If any more produce is going to be sent to Wilkes-Barre, the drivers must carry teamsters' books if union members are going to handle it."

Shook said the drivers application would be returned to him.

Roe reported that Hearn said he had instructed the driver to file the application as a last resort when all other efforts to get the truck unloaded failed.

House Will Vote On British Loan Measure Today

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP)—
Russia loomed large in the closing House debate tonight on the $3,750-000,000 British loan, as proponents declared the crucial vote tomorrow will determine whether the world will look to America or Moscow for leadership.

The long debate ended with Rep.
Clare Booth Luce (R-Iowa) declaring that Britain is "America's natural buffer state" against aggression—that "she is the oldest and most-to-be-trusted ally."

Previously, the Democratic leader,
Rep. McCormack of Massachusetts, had told the House the whole world would be watching its vote and if America turns to isolationism many nations will enter the orbit of the Soviet Union.

Many House members applauded when Rep. Wadsworth (R-N.Y.) called for approval of the huge credit as a boon to foreign commerce, free enterprise and world peace.

"We have an opportunity to lead a free world," Wadsworth declared before the largest attendance in the House since the debate began four days ago.

"Let us act here in a way that our children and our grandchildren will know that we were strong in righteousness."

On the eve of the crucial decision both sides claimed victory. Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) predicted the ratification bill will pass. The Senate approved it May 10 by 46 to 34.

Speaking for the opposition, Rep.
Landis (R-Ind.) declared that "this loan is more likely to promote war than it is to preserve peace." He voiced confidence after a poll of Republican members, that it will be defeated.

The first test probably will come on an amendment by Rep. Dirksen (R-Ill.) proposing that Britain put up full security for any funds. The amendment likely will follow suggestions of Jesse Jones, former Commerce secretary, who has termed the credit in its present form a subsidy for the British Empire.

by discharged from the armed forces, was at his side. Until the jury retired to consider its verdict, Gusler's wife was with him in the courtroom. When the jury retired this afternoon, Mrs. Gusler and her two daughters left the court chamber and were not present when the death verdict was read.

Gusler admitted at his trial he rigged a booby trap of three sticks of dynamite under Smith's desk in an office adjoining a drying kiln at the furniture factory at nearby Bassett and that his plan to do away with Smith was carried out when Smith touched off the charge by pulling a seldom-used switch.

Gusler said his act was prompted by a fear that Smith would "get him" because of bad feeling that grew out of a drinking party in Smith's home two years ago.

Stole A Kiss
All the liquor had been drunk, Gusler said, and while Smith went out to a parked car at Gusler's request the older man put his arm
around Mrs. Smith and stole a kiss.

Russian Block Of Australian Atom Plan Fails

Evatt Proposes Creating Three Committees To Draft Control

NEW YORK, July 12 (AP)—Soviet Russia fought for more than three hours today to block Australian proposals for machinery to draft an atomic control plan, but was defeated on two measures and finally gave up on third proposal.

The wordy battle took place in a stormy three-hour closed meeting of the Working Committee of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission which heard the chairman, Australian Foreign Minister Herbert V. Evatt, reject Russia's atomic control plan as "impossible."

Evatt, reporting on the work of a six-nation sub-committee, proposed a broad international treaty to put into effect an atomic control system similar to that advocated by Bernard M. Baruch, the United States member.

Takes Issue With Report
One of the delegates, who did not wish to be identified, said Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko took issue with Evatt's report at one point because the Australian failed to mention Russia as one of the nations which had been helpful in the sub-committee's work.

The real fight did not begin, however, until after Evatt had completed his report and Baruch had made a short speech endorsing his recommendations for an autonomous atomic control agency and the surrender of the veto power on atomic questions by the five big powers.

Evatt then proposed the creation of three committees to start work at once drafting a control plan on the basis of principles laid down so far in discussions both in public and private meetings.

Gromyko was said to have protested almost every point in Evatt's proposal, accounting for the lengthy session. At one point Evatt, obviously annoyed by the long discussions, told the Soviet delegate he was "talking too much."

"Not half as much as you are,"
Gromyko retorted.

Sources close to Evatt said the Australian delegate felt very strongly about Gromyko's strenuous opposition to what he considered minor points.

The working committee finally voted to establish three 12-nation committees. The first was a committee to make recommendations on measures of control, sanctions and observance of measures to insure the prevention of the use of atomic energy for destructive purpose.

This was approved by a vote of 10 to 2, with Russia and Finland voting against it.

New Committee Created
A second committee was created to study legal questions, and will handle complex questions as to the relationship between the atomic control agency and the Security Council. This will include the controversial veto question. Russia stood alone in opposition to this,
with Poland abstaining.

The third committee will be made

McKeldin, O'Connor Called By Jury In Robbery Probe

BALTIMORE, July 12 (AP)—The grand jury today called Governor Herbert R. O'Connor and Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin to a special night session of its inquiry into the gang-style holdup of the Century Athletic Club July 4.

McKeldin, four hours earlier had ordered a citizens' investigation of Baltimore's Police Department, which is under control of the state administration headed by Governor O'Connor.

"There is a feeling of uneasiness among the people in our city concerning the situation that exists here and the manner in which the Police department has been functioning," said the mayor.

"I propose to appoint a citizens' committee for the purpose of examining into this entire situation."

In ordering the inquiry, the mayor acknowledged he has no legal control over the police, since the department is run by the state and the police commissioner appointed by the governor.

"Never-the-less," said the mayor,
"the taxpayers of the city maintain this department and are entitled to have these matters cleared up."

Police Commissioner Hamilton R.
Atkinson has said there has been no fault in his department's handling of the case. He asserted everything possible has been done by the police in light of reluctance of the victims to report the incident.

The Baltimore grand jury meanwhile examined three policemen who were on beats in the vicinity of the athletic club the day of the holdup.

It also recalled Police Inspector William J. Forrest, who obtained the first official report 48 hours after it had been a morsel of gossip downtown "the block," Baltimore's downtown tendorium belt.

The talk around "the block" was that thugs armed with pistols and a sub-machine gun got upwards of $50,000, and while Smith went out to a parked car at Gusler's re-
around Mrs. Smith and stole a kiss.

MISS TERESA LEARY, 18, of Malden, Mass., is being detained in jail at Elkton, Md., for her father, Jeremiah J. Leary, a customs officer, and two policemen with a warrant specifically charging his daughter with being a "stubborn child." She went to Elkton to get married, but has now changed her mind and says she wants to go home. (See story).

REDHEADED GIRL CALLS WEDDING OFF, WANTS TO RETURN TO MOTHER

Massachusetts College Sophomore Drives To Elkton To Marry

By ELEANOR GRIESEMER
ELKTON, Md., July 12 (AP)—Teresa Leary, 18-year-old Regis college sophomore who drove here from Malden, Mass., to marry a Boston navy veteran, decided today to call it off.

"I want to be with my mother," said the petite redhead. "I'm worried about all the distress I've caused."
"Terry" and 23-year-old Robert Nilsen, a mechanic, were detained by Elkton police on a request of Massachusetts officers.

On their way to Elkton are two policemen and "Terry's" father, Jeremiah J. Leary of (211) Waits street, Malden. They had two warrants obtained in Malden district court, one of them charging Teresa with being a "stubborn child" and the other accusing Nilsen of using an automobile without authority.

Common Accusation
Being a "stubborn child" is a common accusation in Massachusetts, where children legally are in custody of their parents until they are 21. The usual procedure in such cases is to place the child on probation under parental supervision.

"Terry" said today she still may decide to marry Nilsen, but later on.
At the moment she is interested in getting "this mess straightened out" and going "back home."

The pretty little co-ed pushed back her long auburn hair as she

O'CONOR IS SILENT ON DEMANDS FOR SPECIAL SESSION ON RENTS

Asks Labor Group For Specific Facts That Grave
Emergency Exists

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 12 (AP)— Governor O'Connor remained silent tonight on demands for a special legislative session to deal with rent control after meeting today with union labor representatives.

The governor conferred with an 11-man delegation which urged "definite action by the legislature that will protect us from unscrupulous landlords and owners of property."

W. David Cordie, delegation spokesman, in answer to O'Connor's request for specific facts "that show a grave emergency exists," said, "the governor will have the facts and immediately."

The spokesman told the governor that labor in general felt "fair rent committees will not go far enough to protect our clientele as well as the public in general."

Suggestion Rejected
The group rejected a suggestion from the governor that a commission be named to study the need for a special legislative session to deal with rent control.

"A rent control act has never been passed in Maryland, so it would be the first time the state told an owner of property, you may charge
5,000 strong, left their jobs to picket
CIO-manned vessels in retaliation against a CIO boycott of AFL-manned ships on the West Coast."

AFL longshoremen in me a de-lately halted loading operations.
AFL crews in Boston and Baltimore had orders from Paul Hall, chairman of the AFL Labor Maritime Council of greater New York, to stage similar demonstrations.
Police details along Manhattan piers were doubled but no clashes had been reported.

The trouble started three days ago when Harry Bridges, whose CIO longshoremen are as strong on the West coast as AFL bodies in Atlantic ports, ordered his men to refuse to unload an AFL-manned ship at Cooe Bay, Ore.

Hall said Bridges had demanded that AFL crewmen be replaced by men from the committee for maritime Unity, composed of seven CIO organizations.

Hall said "Bridges has declared war" on the AFL Maritime Union and we will not sit idly by. We will lie up their ships in every port up and down the coast."

Secretary of Labor Schwelbenbach last night ordered a labor conciliation to San Francisco to bring the parties together for a conference in hopes of settling the dispute.

Joseph Curran, president of the National Maritime Union (N.M.U.) said tonight there would be no relaxation against the AFL by CIO men in the East. "The N.M.U. is not involved in any jurisdictional dispute with the AFL," he said.

"It's strictly a matter between unions out on the West Coast," Curran asserted. "We don't see why they're picketing us here. But we do not intend to have any trouble."

Foreign Ministers End Meeting Until Conference

Molotov Remains Opposed To Central Administration For Germany

By JOSEPH DYNAN

PARIS, July 12 (AP)—The four-power foreign ministers' council adjourned its 28-day session tonight
after Soviet Foreign Minister V. M.
Molotov stood firm against any moves that would have led to immediate settlement of Austrian or German problems, a British source said.

The Soviet minister blocked an American proposal that would have established a special commission to draft a peace treaty with Austria and declined to permit the authorization of a commission to draw up a definition of German assets in Austria, the British informant said.

Revin Presides
Molotov further refused to support a plan to set up a central administration for all Germany except the Saar basin.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin presided at the night session which wound up the current meeting of the ministers of the United States, Great Britain, France and Russia.

His gavel dropped at 9:10 p. m.
(3:10 p. m. EST) and he commented:

"Well, we shall meet again at the peace conference."

During the discussion of the German question, Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, declared Russia had already received $14,000,000,000 in reparations from Germany. Molotov earlier in the week asked for $10,000,000,000 in war damages.

American sources said Molotov's opposition to making any immediate decision on the Austrian situation was closely allied to his charge that several hundred thousand displaced persons who have fascist and pro-fitter backgrounds still are in Austria.

These persons must be deported, Molotov has reiterated. The other ministers previously indicated they would support such a deportation move.

At the close of the discussion on Germany, Georges Bidault, Secretary of State of France, said he would bring up the question of the question of the next meeting of the ministers—a special one in the fall—and would demand the right of other nations interested in the problem to sit in with the four-power ministers.

Bidault named Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Denmark as the interested nations. United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes said he would support Bidault's proposal.

The French government earlier this week, at the instruction of the foreign ministers' council, sent out invitations to 17 other nations to participate in a general European peace conference to be convened here July 29.

In their final session, the ministers

CIO-AFL Dispute Of Longshoremen Ties Up Shipping

NEW YORK, July 12 (AP)—Twelve merchant ships—four of them waiting to sail with UNRRA relief supplies—were stalled in New York harbor today by a CIO-AFL tug of war which threatened to paralyze East Coast shipping.

Seventy-five other vessels temporarily were immobilized as AFL seamen, said by union spokesmen to be 5,000 strong, left their jobs to picket
CIO-manned vessels in retaliation
against a CIO boycott of AFL-
manned ships on the West Coast.

Noted Flier Wages Fight To Recover

President Truman Wires Hughes Words Of Encouragement

LOS ANGELES, July 12 (AP)— Howard Hughes, making no progress in his struggle for life from critical air crash injuries, received a telegram tonight from President Truman saying "I feel sure you will win this fight."

"I am watching eagerly all the reports concerning you," the chief executive told the wealthy airplane designer and film producer, critically hurt when his experimental craft, crashed Sunday on its maiden test flight.

"I feel sure that you will win this fight. With every good wish, Harry S. Truman."

The condition of Hughes, who apparently had been holding his own since he was hospitalized, took a turn for the worse last night and his physicians reported late today
"no change."

Hughes has received telegrams from hundreds of friends and notables, including Mayor William O'Dwyer, of New York City; Mayor
Edward Kelly, of Chicago; Eddie Rickenbacker, William Randolph Hearst, Jr., and many film celebrities.

In a medical bulletin in late afternoon, some 20 hours since the late one, Drs. Verne R. Mason and Lawrence Chaffin declared:

"A consultation has been held by the doctors engaged on the case and further X-ray photographs of the fractures, including the lung, have been made. Everything possible is being done."

Last night, after hearing the film and aircraft executive whisper explanation of his spectacular plane wreck, Dr. Mason acknowledged that he did not know whether his patient could recover.

The 40-year-old flier was testing his company's new photo-reconnaissance plane, destined for the army, last Sunday when propeller trouble sent him plummeting down in Beverly Hills, starting a fire which burned one home and damaged two others. He was dragged badly injured from the wreckage.

Throughout the day doctors were in consultation, while bedside reports told of Hughes sleeping fitfully.

1. Livestock, meat, poultry and products processed from them.
2. Milk and dairy products, such as butter and cheese.
3. All grains, and livestock and poultry feed made from grain.
4. Tobacco, cigars and cigarettes.
5. Cottonseed, soybeans and their derivatives, including vegetable oils.
6. Petroleum and its products, including gasoline, unless the supply is insufficient to meet the domestic demand.

The new bill's pricing formula for producers, manufacturers and processors appeared satisfactory to the White House and OPA. It provides that the ceilings must be high enough to cover, on an industry-wide basis, the average costs pre-valing in 1940. Also, the average industry-wide increase in costs since then. Several qualifying clauses in this section give OPA considerable discretion.

But what Mr. Truman gained there, he lost in the imposing list of price control exemptions written into the bill.

What Mr. Truman objected to as "cool-plus" amendments for automobile and appliance dealers remained in the new measure.

He would get the year's extension of OPA authority for which he asked but the agency would not receive the additional $250,000,000 in subsidies which he urged. As with the vetoed measure, the new bill makes $1,000,000,000 in subsidies available.

The independent decontrol board to which the president said he did not object was retained in the Sen

Ice Cream Dessert

ICE CREAM SUNFLOWER . . . Satisfying summer dessert.

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

What makes a better summer dessert than ice cream? But it may be too much trouble to make. Or perhaps, you live in one of those areas where there isn't any heavy cream. Well, why not buy it at the corner store and save trouble? Ice cream isn't only cooling on a scorching day. It supplies proteins, vitamins and minerals, as well as being good eating.

An Ice Cream Sunflower is a pretty thing, and a perfect dessert or afternoon refreshment. Peaches are plentiful this summer and we want to make all possible use of our abundant foods. In line with wheat-saving, are the thin wedges of ring cake, arranged alternately with the peaches around a big mound of ice cream, yet as part of the dessert they're sufficient. Buy the cake at your baker's or make it yourself from the recipe below.

Ice Cream Sunflower

1 quart vanilla ice cream in bulk
1 small ring cake
8 halves honey peaches

Heap ice cream in center of a large round serving dish. Surround with eight upright slices of ring cake, pressing base of cake into the ice cream. Place a honey peach half between each cake slice. Pour the liquid from the honey peaches into center of each peach half.

Honey Peaches

4 fresh ripe peaches
1/2 cup cold water

Peel peaches, cut in half and remove pit. Blend water and honey in small pan. Add peaches and simmer over low heat for five minutes. Remove from heat; cool to room temperature.

Ring Cake

1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup sugar
2 eggs, separated
1 1/2 cups sifted flour

1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream shortening and sugar together until light, add egg yolks. Stir together three times flour and baking powder. Blend in sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk. Add vanilla and beat. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Grease and flour a one-quart ring mold. Pour in batter. Bake in moderate oven (375°) for 30 minutes, or until done. If you haven't that little bit of flour to spare, get the same good peach-and-ice-cream effect by serving the following.

Peach Melba

Stew fresh raspberries in water and sugar for about ten minutes in a cup of raspberries to half a cup of water and a quarter cup of sugar. Cool. When ready to serve, place a peeled half of a fresh peach in a sherbert glass. Cover with a big spoonful of vanilla ice cream, and pour the raspberry syrup over.

Ice Cream Dessert

ICE CREAM SUNFLOWER . . . Satisfying summer dessert.

Associated Press Food Editor

What makes a better summer dessert than ice cream? But it may be too much trouble to make. Or perhaps, you live in one of those areas where there isn't any heavy cream. Well, why not buy it at the corner store and save trouble? Ice cream isn't only cooling on a scorching day. It supplies proteins, vitamins and minerals, as well as being good eating.

An Ice Cream Sunflower is a pretty thing, and a perfect dessert or afternoon refreshment. Peaches are plentiful this summer and we want to make all possible use of our abundant foods. In line with wheat-saving, are the thin wedges of ring cake, arranged alternately with the peaches around a big mound of ice cream, yet as part of the dessert they're sufficient. Buy the cake at your baker's or make it yourself from the recipe below.

Ice Cream Sunflower

1 quart vanilla ice cream in bulk
1 small ring cake
2 halves honey peaches

Heap ice cream in center of a large round serving dish. Surround with eight upright slices of ring cake, pressing base of cake into the ice cream. Place a honey peach half between each cake slice. Pour the liquid from the honey peaches into center of each peach half.

Honey Peaches

4 fresh ripe peaches
2½ tablespoons honey
½ cup cold water

Peel peaches, cut in half and remove pit. Blend water and honey in small pan. Add peaches and simmer over low heat for five minutes. Remove from heat; cool to room temperature.

Ring Cake

½ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, separated
1½ cups sifted flour

1½ teaspoons baking powder
½ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
Cream shortening and sugar together until light; add egg yolks. Sift together three times flour and baking powder. Blend in sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk. Add vanilla and beat. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Grease and flour a one-quart ring mold. Pour in batter. Bake in moderate oven (375°) for 30 minutes, or until done. If you haven't that little bit of flour to spare, get the same good peach-and-ice-cream effect by serving the following:

Peach Melba

Stew fresh raspberries in water and sugar for about ten minutes (a cup of raspberries to half a cup of water and a quarter cup of sugar). Cool. When ready to serve, place a peeled half of a fresh peach in a sherbert glass. Cover with a big spoonful of vanilla ice cream, and pour the raspberry syrup over.

Soft Punishment Is Deplored

The trials of military personnel accused of beating prisoners at the American guard house in Lichfield, England, drag on at Bad Nauheim, Germany, even though an officer arrived there some time ago from Washington with word from the high command that the trials were hurried up to get them over with and "out of the papers." And the accounts of them, significantly meager, continue to make unpleasant reading. So far since the trials were moved from England, one enlisted man has been acquitted, an officer and five enlisted guards have been found guilty. But there has not been a single jail sentence given these six men convicted of beating prisoners or of ordering them beaten. There has been sickening testimony of brutality. But punishment has been rained from a rear guard of $200 fines. There were serious charges, such as being AWOL, during combat, against these guardhouse prisoners. And you can't run an army the way you do a picnic. Granted, still, there must be other means of dealing with such men, than the Nazi-type cruelty brought out in the testimony. There are prisoners convicted of serious crimes in our civilian prison, but we don't find it necessary to beat them. Public opinion would not condone such beatings and tortures. And if they occurred, it is likely that the offender would receive something worse than a scolding or a fine no bigger than that many GIs have lost in an unlucky evening of grape-shooting.

All this talk about "boys' strikes" has a rather ominous sound, but it won't frighten the old-timers. They can remember when the practice of buying something at a price one thought reasonable, or refusing to buy, was fairly common. It used to be known simply as "thrifty shopping."

Hillman's Death Loss To Labor Movement

The death of Sidney Hillman will be felt profoundly by the labor movement in this country, for as head of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers he set a pattern for other organized groups as to how a union should be conducted. He advanced the pay and welfare of his union members with a minimum of strikes, and cooperated with employers to assure their profits at the same time he was increasing workers' pay. It was not necessary always to agree with him or to applaud his methods and immediate objectives to understand the ability of the man and his intelligence both as a labor leader and a public servant.

He had some success in his efforts while a director of the labor division of the National Defense Advisory Commission, and as director of the Office of Production Management, and his patriotism was displayed through his success in engaging labor's co-operation in the period of our preparation for war. It is to be regretted that his qualifications for statesmanship are not more frequently displayed among other labor's spokesmen. An address by him in 1940 substantiates this contention. Then he said:

"We must be ready and able to meet the totalitarian challenge with courage, with cool heads and with clear vision. . . . Certainly, all groups in the nation are increasingly aware of what is at stake in the present conflict between systems of slavery and the organization of freedom. Certainly, too, labor is especially aware of the vital importance of the success of this defense program. Labor's aims and its free choices are, after all, the first victims of dictatorship. This, in essence, is labor's stake in this great defensive effort—the more especially since the aims of labor and the aims of democracy are one and the same thing."

It tended to dispel the belief he was a Communist or even a Communist sympathizer. He fought that influence consistently, but in analyzing the man must be said he was anything but a conservative in the conventional sense.

He entered into union affairs shortly after his arrival in this country from his native Lithuania, and first came into prominence in labor circles as a leader of the successful garment workers' strike in Chicago thirty-six years ago. His success in unionism continued through the years until the birth of the Political Action Committee, which made him even better known both in and out of the labor movement.

His leadership in that organization, which was his pet until death removed him from its helm, gave him very decided political power. He had an effective job through this medium of intimidating candidates he opposed and getting out the vote for those he favored. He did not fail to exact the spoils of politics by having men of his faction placed in key positions in government where they could grant special favors and privileges. His political tactics, to attack, discredit and destroy, to spread class consciousness and distrust to gain his objectives stirred much opposition on occasions, but despite such ruthlessness, which we disapprove, his just, temperate and faithfulness to his union commitments with management provided much to be admired in the man.

Mother Hubbard's cupboard may continue to be almost bare as far as meat is concerned, but if it is bread she needs she has only to look in the direction of Kansas.

Most Vets Find Jobs Or Return To School

According to the United States Employment service, 19 out of 12 veterans discharged by June had either found jobs or gone back to school. Considering the magnitude of the job this is a remarkable record. Millions upon millions of men have left the armed services since the end of the war and the total is being boosted by thousands monthly. The bulk of this vast demobilization came at a time when industry was in the throes of reconversion, and when many factories were shut down by strikes.

The figures cited by the USES show how well American employers have met the challenge of absorbing these returning servicemen in civilian jobs. As a matter of fact, the problem has been met better than these statistics imply. It is safe to assume that a goodly percentage of the two out of 12 still unemployed are men who want to take their time and look around before going back to work. Moreover, many others have preferred to draw unemployment pay to taking jobs with pay not in the top brackets.

Despite the good record that has been made so far there is still room for the vigorous programs which are being pushed by various veterans' organizations to open additional job opportunities for returning service men. Many veterans are still without work and more are being discharged daily.

It will be harder to place this last group than those who left the service earlier. But until the country does its best to see that these men have an opportunity to work it will not have fully discharged its obligation to those who served in uniform.

The vacation season is here and the weather is almost as hot as the family firestorm over whether it will be the mountains or the seashore.

New Record Set In Field of Musicals

The other night "Okla-homa!" marked up its 1,405th New York showing and thereby set a new record in the field of musical productions. Its nearest rival, "Hellzapoppin," counted a mere 1,404 performances on Broadway. And, as the new champion is still going strong, it must be termed far and away the most successful offering in its class ever put on the stage.

Still more remarkable, few of those who profess special knowledge in such matters would have cared to predict any such spectacular run when it opened on March 31, 1943. In fact, the prophets who did venture forecasts on the basis of earlier tryouts were convinced that the show would have a short life. They said it wasn't funny enough, that the dancing it relied on, that it lacked stars. They said a number of other things to the same general effect.

But they were wrong. They could hardly have been more wrong, as the record shows. Theater-goers liked "Okla-homa!" and took it to their bosom. In New York alone the musical has played to 2,107,811 persons who paid $3,442,814 to see and hear it. The road company has done almost as well, with an audience over a span of 1,283 performances in 23 cities numbered at 1,918,454 and an intake of $4,862,139. The figures add up to 2,668 appearances, 4,026,665 customers and $10,304,754 in receipts.

It must be left to the experts to explain this theatrical phenomenon, although freshness in approach all along the line undoubtedly had a great deal to do with the show's success. But it might as well be admitted that whoever put the exclamation point in the title knew what he was doing!

Another law which seems to have been repealed concerns the divine right of kings, who now are satisfied if given a decent head start when leaving the throne.

Learn To Listen Attentively

Few things profit a man more in politics, business or even ordinary conversation than learning to listen attentively and to what is being said to him.

How often, when arguing with someone, you can tell by his wandering eye and restless movements that he is thinking more of what he himself is going to say next than what you are saying to him.

How often, even in serious debate on serious matters, a debater has just reason to complain that his chief point either has been unheard or ignored by his opponent.

It always pleases not to say fatter to a man if you at least have listened carefully and noted what he says. It betters your chance of convincing him. And it holds true on all planes of controversy—from a family squabble right up to a dispute between nations.

A news item tells of a number of homes here that are partially vacant. By that they must mean there is no one living in the basement.

Now it is charged that the Russian spy server at Bikini—yes, one was there—did not know what he saw until he heard from Moscow.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Nazi Propaganda Links With U. S. Statesmen Disclosed; Nazis Applauded Father Coughlin as Isolationist; Dennis Approached on Book.

By DREW PEARSON

(Editor's Note—This is the second of Drew Pearson's columns on how the Nazi propaganda machine functioned in the U.S.A.)

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The cross-examination of Nazi diplomats by the U. S. Army in Germany throws significant light on the Justice Department's efforts to convict various American citizens charged with spreading enemy propaganda against their country and indicted for sedition.

This trial has been held in suspense for two years, but some of the confidential evidence now gathered in Germany may be conclusive.

Below follow excerpts from this hitherto unpublished testimony, taken by Capt. Sam Harris from the former first secretary of the German Embassy in Washington, Dr. Herbert von Stempel. Previously, the Washington Merry-Go-Round had told how George Sylvester Viereck, nephew of the Kaiser, had used the late Senator Ernest Lundeen of Minnesota, ex-Congressman Hamilton Fish, ex-Congressman Stephen Day of Illinois to disseminate Nazi propaganda. These revelations brought vigorous denials.

However, here is the official testimony.

Captain Harris: Did Viereck ever mention the name of Senator Lundeen to you?

Von Stempel: Yes. He told me that he was an old friend of his and that when the president of the German Red Cross came to the United States Viereck claimed to have arranged that Senator Lundeen pronounce the after-dinner welcome speech.

Q. Did Viereck ever mention that he had written some of Senator Lundeen's speeches?

A. Yes. He told me on a number of occasions that he had written down highlights to be used by Senator Lundeen in his speeches.

Q. Did Viereck state to you that he had written speeches for any other Senators or Congressmen, or contribute ideas for their speeches?

A. I don't remember all the details. Viereck tried to give me the impression that he had good relations with a number of Senators and Congressmen—Lundeen, Hamilton Fish, Senator Holt (W. Va.), and Stephen Day (Ill.)—and maybe more, but I do not remember all the names.

Q. Was Father Coughlin mentioned in any communications you received from Berlin?

A. I recall that Berlin may have asked about the political importance of Father Coughlin, his radio audience and the like.

Q. What else?

A. I believe that the Pope banned Father Coughlin, and Berlin asked what would be our suggestion to lift that ban. We replied that the German Embassy in the United States could do nothing about that.

Q. Why were the Berlin officials interested in lifting the ban?

A. Because he was such a strong isolationist.

Q. Who financed these whispering campaigns?

A. They were financed by members of the Party.

Q. The Nazi Party in the United States?

A. Yes.

Q. What was the nature of these whispering campaigns?

A. Germany would win the war.

Q. What else?

A. Contradicting atrocity propaganda against Germany.

Q. What else?

A. Anti-Semitic propaganda.

Q. Did Viereck ever mention William Griffith to you?

A. Was he the editor or publisher of the New York Inquirer?

Q. Yes.

A. Griffin several times took up advertising in his daily newspaper in which he dealt with the Flanders Mail Publications to spread them. Griffin was much against England. I believe he had sued Churchill. He hated England.

Q. Why did Viereck place such large advertisements with Griffin?

A. Griffin helped Viereck distribute his books. The other newspapers did not do that. Viereck and Griffin were working—how do you say it?—hand in glove.

Q. Do you know Lawrence Dennis? A. Yes. Q. One of those indicted for sedition?

A. Yes.

Q. When did you first meet him?

A. I met Lawrence Dennis in the period 1940-41 and I think I met him as far as I remember, in one of the South American legations.

Q. Was he publishing his "Weekly Foreign Letter" at that time?

A. If he already did so at that time or later, I do not know. But later I received the "Weekly Foreign Letter" in which he wrote about domestic and international politics as well as economic affairs.

Q. Do you recall that you were advised by someone that he was in need of funds?

A. Yes, I knew that he was not doing too well.

Q. Did you ever give him any funds?

A. No, not directly as far as I remember.

Q. Have you ever heard of his book, "The Dynamics of War and Revolution"?

A. Yes, I received a copy of this Dennis book and I glanced through it. It seemed like an interesting book.

Inflation Is Not Coming. It Is Here. Is Truman Building An Alibi?

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, July 12.—After a lengthy piece of propaganda argument defending President Truman's position on the OPA bill—something that hardly belongs in a document which professes to give an account of what has been happening in reconversion—the report of the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion just issued makes this amazing statement:

"Steadily rising and sustained production requires: an assured supply of labor at foreseeable cost, an assured supply of materials at foreseeable cost, and an assured market for the products of industry."

"Under stabilized prices we are guaranteed all three of these necessities—labor, materials, and markets. Under rapidly rising prices—which we would certainly have without adequate price control—we are guaranteed none."

Second Contentment A Fallacy

Certainly the first sentence is correct, but the second sentence is a fallacy.

Unquestionably there would be sustained production if business had "an assured supply of labor at foreseeable cost." Indeed, there would be unexampled prosperity. But how can business and industry today know what their labor costs will be? No labor union of any size has pledged its members to maintain wage levels for anything but a few months. Union contracts longer than a year are rare because unions refuse to make them, and almost all contracts contain clauses which furnish excuses for re-opening wage provisions on 60 days' notice.

Does anyone know anything about the operations of business think that by stabilizing prices there is a "guarantee" of an assured supply of labor "at foreseeable cost"? Quite the contrary is true.

The refusal of the administration to continue to stabilize wages and salaries, as was done during the war, and the refusal of labor leaders to accept reasonable adjustments since V-J day have made it impossible to foresee labor costs.

Labor forcing Up Costs

Labor unions are arbitrarily and capriciously using the collective bargaining power granted them under that European editions of his book should be issued and it was thought that this was a practical way to give him indirect financial help and to publicize his personality.

Q. What is the source of your information?

A. Either through Dennis or another source, I had heard that Berlin had such a plan. Now it could have been that it was mentioned in an instruction or communication.

Q. Who would know about that?

A. Dennis. Or, there were quite a number of Nazi agencies that occupied themselves with propaganda in the United States.

Q. What were those Nazi agencies?

A. The German Railway Information Service, the German-American Chamber of Commerce, Westermann Book Store, and the V.D.A. They may sometimes have suggested to Berlin—why don't you sponsor Dennis's book?

Q. Did Viereck discuss Dennis with you at any time?

A. Yes, several times. Berlin insisted that America being a country of business affairs of great importance and their leaders being politically influential, we should publish magazines which would deal with international economic problems. This order was passed on as usual to Viereck who started to organize such a magazine, either as a weekly or fortnightly. As Dennis had had experience in this type of work because he had published the "Weekly Foreign Letter" or similar publications, it was considered that he should be the one who should organize or write for such a magazine.

Q. Did you ever speak to Dennis about this project?

A. Yes.

the Wagner Labor Relations Law. They have been forcing up costs so rapidly in the last few months that many small businesses are closing up and many more will have to be liquidated before 1946 is ended. There simply is no way to meet the unending demands of a monopolistic group which recognizes no restraint on wage levels and uses the threat of costly strikes as a means to enforce its demands.

President Truman refused to apply the rules of fair play to collective bargaining when he vetoed the Case bill. He encouraged the present wage inflation and now, when industry wants its costs covered in prices, as provided in the Taft amendment, the President of the United States seeks to make a political issue out of it by denouncing the author of that amendment.

Plain, Ordinary Politics

This is just plain, ordinary politics. The inflation about which so much has been written is not common. It is here. The only controversy is as to who is responsible and it begins to look now as if Mr. Truman may have deliberately killed the OPA in an attempt to build up an alibi for the confusion caused by his own inflationary policies.

There can be no effective price control without wage control. Price control is supposed to be justified with respect to shortages until supply can catch up with demand. But the shortage of manpower during the recent reconversion months was nevertheless exploited to the utmost by the labor union leaders, who were aided and abetted by the administration.

You're Telling Me!

By WILLIAM RITT

The last peaceful, normal, sane day this old world experienced was June 27, 1914. Come the dawn and the biggest headache in world history.

It was on June 28 that a Serbian student fired a pistol and punctured an Austrian archduke and the peace of the world.

That shot sent civilization on the wildest roller coaster ride in world history. How it managed to hang on so long is a mystery.

The fuss over the archduke's assassination started the whole shooting match. In no time at all the big European nations were firing from the hip.

The little innocent-bystander nations dove for the storm cellar. But some of them, like Belgium, didn't quite make it.

Out of that war came the false dawn and out of that came the depression. The world staggered out of the depression into another war.

That's the story of our times, kiddos. It probably will make thrilling reading for posterity. However, as some one said, history is a darn sight easier to read than to live through.

The largest solar spectrograph in the world is at the Mount Wilson Observatory in California.

"IT SAYS HERE"

Progressive Los Angeles was first again when it inaugurated helicopter mail service in its fair city. Yes, now I'll really be getting "fan" mail. I don't know the exact reason for this radical development, but I understand the postman rang twice, saw Lana Turner, and took to the air.

The mailman is thrilled over this new innovation in mail service. Not only can he rest his weary feet, but he can now deliver mail to the Dagwood Bumstead home in safety.

It certainly has changed things. Now the postman is briefed before going on his rounds, and I understand they have strict orders to stay away from Crosby's house. I can't blame them for the discrimination. . . . Old Crosby will shoot at anything with wings approaching his chimney.

I went up in a helicopter once and it was quite an experience. I never had so much fun with a Yo-Yo in all my life. Seriously though, it's really marvelous to be able to remain suspended two stories above the ground. It was a sight I'll never forget and I would have stayed up there longer if she hadn't pulled down the shades.

I'm a staunch advocate of progress and I think this new helicopter mail service is great, but when the postman starts making paper airplanes out of my letters and sailing them through my window . . . that's too much.

British Loan And What It Means To U. S. And World

By MARK SULLIVAN

The status of the British loan is this: It was negotiated by representatives of the American and British governments. It has been approved by the Senate, 46 to 34. The House Committee on Banking and Currency approved it by 20 to 5. It is now before the House as a whole for action.

This record has force of itself. The loan is an intricate transaction, not confined to a simple grant from one country to another, but accompanied by provisions having to do, among other things, with future trade relations between the United States and Britain, and especially with world trade as a whole. These provisions, and the way they will work out if put into effect, are beyond the possibility of adequate study by the average citizen. He is justified in taking for granted that in the prolonged weeks of negotiations by highly placed and expert representatives of our government, with those of Britain, every aspect of the loan received the most thorough consideration that is humanly possible. He is justified in assuming that our interests were fully protected by our representatives. He would be justified in assuming, from the character and standing of the representatives of both countries, that they were not mere commercial bargainers intent only upon the respective interests of a lender and a borrower. What they did direct on the plan of statesmanship, directed in the first instance toward restoration of a ravaged world, by which both and all will benefit. The agreement they arrived at was subjected to intense study by a Senate committee, by the Senate as a whole, and by a House committee, all of which approved.

Special Reason For Approval

This record not only has weight because of its thoroughness, but of itself creates a special reason for approval by the House. For disapproval would be much more than a refusal of money. It would be a denial of confidence, made at the last minute and under circumstances which would make the denial spectacular and damaging to the last degree. The damage to Britain as world's greatest trading nation—taking, before the war, a third of all the world's exports—would be serious enough. It would be, as the Washington Post has said, "tantamount to our telling the whole of the trading world that we consider Britain a poor risk."

Damage To Confidence Of World

But there would be also damage to the confidence of the world in us. Disapproval of the British loan at this stage would be notice to the world that it must be careful about relying upon agreements made by representatives of our government, that such an agreement may be upset long after it was originally made through dissent by one branch of Congress. The effect, at a time when we and the world are dedi-

INSIDE WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The OPA fight in Congress after President Truman's veto is touch and go. Two straws in the winds, however, provide these apparent certainties:

1—Federal rent controls will be continued for another year despite the contention of administration spokesmen that both rents and prices must be held.

2—Congress is overwhelmingly in favor of a "reasonable" price control bill.

The presidential veto placed the burden of holding prices down on businessmen and any disposition on their part to let them go may mean more rigid controls than were proposed in the vetoed bill.

UNDER THE SURFACE, all is not serene at the Labor department. Outwardly, Secretary Schwelbensch appears to have restored harmony in his agency. But his bureau chiefs are far from happy. They object vigorously to the fact that they are now isolated from the secretary's office.

Frances Perkins maintained close liaison with her bureau heads and sought their ideas. But Schwelbensch remains aloof, preferring to act through his assistant secretaries. This led one bureau chief to remark that it was like operating in a vacuum.

BEST GUESSES NOW is that Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson will leave when and if the peace treaties for Europe are signed. Observers think that is the earliest he would want to return to his post.

Administration leaders think they have enough votes to defeat the provision, but the current unclarity in the Holy Land may alter the ultimate result.

DEFINITE MOVEMENT is afoot in the House to attach a Palestine rider to the $3,750,000,000 British loan bill.

Observers believe the rider, which will be offered as an amendment, will make the loan conditional on Great Britain's immediate approval for the entry of 100,000 displaced Jews into Palestine.

Administration leaders think they have enough votes to defeat the provision, but the current unclarity in the Holy Land may alter the ultimate result.

Breathlessness Is Poor Symptom Of Heart Disease

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Ten out of ten people who experience breathlessness and rapid, noticeable beating of the heart should consult a doctor. Nine, to be relieved of their fears that they are suffering from a heart disturbance. The tenth to get needed care for an actual heart ailment.

For while such symptoms as shortness of breath, pain and rapid pulse may indicate heart disease they may also be due to many other causes.

Individuals Vary

Individuals vary a great deal in how much exercise they can do. Some healthy people are robust and athletic, while others are fitted only for more quiet ways of living, and then there are many people in between the trained athlete and the person whose muscles are weak and flabby.

Furthermore, a person's age has some effect on the amount of exercise he can do without getting short of breath.

Thus, healthy persons often imagine they are suffering from heart disease because they find they are breathless when they attempt to do things which, previously they could do with ease.

They fail to realize that the

symptoms may not be due to disease, but merely to lessening of their physical energy which comes with advancing age. Thus, the mere presence of the symptoms mentioned is no sign of heart disease.

However, since they are an indication that possibly something is wrong with the heart, whenever they occur, a thorough study of the heart is advisable. This should include an x-ray of the heart and the making of an electrocardiogram or electrical tracing of the heart beat. Furthermore, the doctor will listen to the beating of the heart to determine if there are any abnormal sounds called heart mur-

Damage Without Symptoms
Many times, damage to the heart may be present without producing any noticeable symptoms. It depends upon the extent of the damage to the heart and the type of work a person does. In other words, if he does not do a great deal of physical work, he may never notice any shortness of breath or pain around the heart.

Heart damage which is not causing symptoms often is discovered during the course of a life-insurance examination. The wise person will have a physical examination at least once a year, so that when disorders of this type are present they may be discovered and proper treatment carried out. It is possible, by regulating a person's activities, to reduce the strain on the heart and thus to maintain its reserve power for many years.

If symptoms due to heart disease are present the physician can advise such drugs as digitalis which slows and strengthens the heart beat and

Man Refuses To Pay Court Costs And Is Sent To Jail

Oscar Norris remained a prisoner in the county jail last night after being committed on a bench warrant Wednesday morning by Chief Judge William A. Huster, who issued it after Norris refused to pay court costs of previous proceedings and refused to go to jail until the bench warrant was issued.

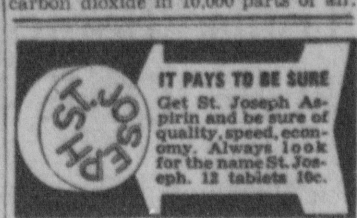

Norris was brought into court on a charge of contempt of court for non-payment of court costs in a former case brought by his wife. He declared he would go to jail before he would pay an attachment levied by his former wife, Mrs. Virginia Norris.

Authorities recalled yesterday that Norris in 1942 turned his wife and children out of their home and barricaded himself inside. Police tried unsuccessfully to gain access to the property and finally threw a tear gas bomb through a window. Norris failed to come out. After the smoke cleared officers broke in and found Norris in a semi-conscious condition.

Judge Huster made no final ruling in the case brought to his attention Wednesday morning.

Breathlessness Is Poor Symptom Of Heart Disease

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Ten out of ten people who experience breathlessness and rapid, noticeable beating of the heart should consult a doctor. Nine, to be relieved of their fears that they are suffering from a heart disturbance. The tenth to get needed care for an actual heart ailment.

For while such symptoms as shortness of breath, pain and rapid pulse may indicate heart disease they may also be due to many other causes.

Individuals Vary

Individuals vary a great deal in how much exercise they can do. Some healthy people are robust and athletic, while others are fitted only for more quiet ways of living, and then there are many people in between the trained athlete and the person whose muscles are weak and flabby.

Furthermore, a person's age has some effect on the amount of exercise he can do without getting short of breath.

Thus, healthy persons often imagine they are suffering from heart disease because they find they are breathless when they attempt to do things which, previously they could do with ease.

They fail to realize that the

However, since they are an indication that possibly something is wrong with the heart, whenever they occur, a thorough study of the heart is advisable. This should include an x-ray of the heart and the making of an electrocardiogram or electrical tracing of the heart beat. Furthermore, the doctor will listen to the beating of the heart to determine if there are any ab-

Damage Without Symptoms
Many times, damage to the heart may be present without producing any noticeable symptoms. It depends upon the extent of the damage to the heart and the type of work a person does. In other words, if he does not do a great deal of physical work, he may never notice any shortness of breath or pain around the heart.

Heart damage which is not causing symptoms often is discovered during the course of a life-insurance examination. The wise person will have a physical examination at least once a year, so that when disorders of this type are present they may be discovered and proper treatment carried out. It is possible, by regulating a person's activities, to reduce the strain on the heart and thus to maintain its reserve power for many years.

If symptoms due to heart disease are present the physician can advise such drugs as digitalis which slows and strengthens the heart beat and thus aids in eliminating the symptoms. In any event, the physician is the only one who can determine the condition of the heart, and lay down rules for protecting it from further injury.

Man Refuses To Pay Court Costs And Is Sent To Jail

Oscar Norris remained a prisoner in the county jail last night after being committed on a bench warrant Wednesday morning by Chief Judge William A. Huster, who issued it after Norris refused to pay court costs of previous proceedings and refused to go to jail until the bench warrant was issued.

Norris was brought into court on a charge of contempt of court for non-payment of court costs in a former case brought by his wife. He declared he would go to jail before he would pay an attachment levied by his former wife, Mrs. Virginia Norris.

Authorities recalled yesterday that Norris in 1942 turned his wife and

Louise Santora To Become Bride Of F. F. Felkner

Ceremony Will Be Performed In St. Patrick's Church Rectory

Miss Louise Santora, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Santora, 361 Warren street, has selected July 16 for her marriage to Frank Felkner, son of Mrs. Frank Felkner, Columbus, O., and the late Mr. Felkner.

The ceremony will be solemnized at 7 o'clock in St. Patrick's Catholic church rectory, with her sister, Miss Ida Santora, as her maid of honor and Paul Young, Martinez, Calif., serving as best man for Mr. Felkner.

Mr. and Mrs. Santora will entertain with a wedding reception, honoring their daughter and her bride party, in the ball room of the Fort Cumberland hotel, following the ceremony.

An informal party will be given at the home of the bride's parents, following the rehearsal, Monday evening, for the bride party and out of town guests.

Pre-nuptial parties, in her honor, include a dinner party given by a group of girls with whom she worked, in the secretarial office at Celanese, earlier in the week at the Maryland Cocktail Lounge. Hostesses were Mrs. Mary Louise Neder, Miss Mary Jo Leach, Miss Jane Bell, Miss Betty Mae Davis, Miss June Ann Henry and Miss Helen McKnight. A gift was presented to the bride-elect and the evening was spent informally.

A miscellaneous shower was given by Mrs. Frank Patterson and Mrs. Charles Trimble, sisters of the bride-elect, at the former's home, Bedford road. A pink and white color scheme was carried out in the flowers and candles decorating the table, where covers were laid for 15 guests. It was also repeated in the large shower cake. A corsage of yellow blossoms was presented to the bride-elect and old fashioned bouquets to each guest as favors.

The Merit Veteran Unit of the CSMC entertained for Miss Santora at the home of Miss Louise Price, Fayette street. A green and white color scheme was carried out in the tiered cake, adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom, and containing three charms, and repeated in the lighted candles.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Ursuline Academy and Mr. Felkner, of Ohio state university, Columbus. He is employed by the International Mineral and Chemical Company, with headquarters near Cincinnati.

The engagement of Miss Shirley Hershberger to Lee R. Mower, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee R. Mower, 513 Regina avenue, has been announced by Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Hershberger, 507 Rose Hill avenue, parents of the bride-elect. The ceremony will be performed July 22, in the First Baptist church.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Allegheny high school, where she served as cheer leader last year, and is a member of the Hi-Y. Mr. Mower, a former Allegheny student and member of the football team, enlisted in the AAC in March, 1944. Completing basic training at Keesler field, Miss. he was assigned to radio mechanics school, Sioux Falls, S.D., then Truxard field, Wis., and was graduated from Scott field, Ill. He was stationed at Greensboro, N. C., prior to his recent discharge.

The Cumberland Sub-district Youth Fellowship picnic will be held at Constitution park today, beginning with swimming at 2:30 and concluding with a devotional service in the evening.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

By DOROTHY MANNERS

HOLLYWOOD, July 12—Wonderful news that La Merkel, so ill a ago that she despaired of ever being able to continue her career, is completely recovered and signed for the top female role of Mrs. Claghorn opposite Kenny Delmare in "It's a Joke, Son." Una's story is one of real courage. It is no secret that she went completely to pieces after the tragic death of her mother and was confined to a hospital for months. When she was strong enough to leave she accompanied her father to Florida—and there her real recuperation began.

Mr. Merkel bought a trading schooner operating between Florida and the West Indies and Una worked practically as a deck hand on the trips seeking the hardest physical work she could endure. The recipe was magic because it began to drift back to Hollywood how wonderful she looked and how well she was. When Brynne Foy started casting the Claghorn movie for his Eagle-Lion Company he thought immediately of Una who will be perfect as the "Mrs. Flax" wife of the blow-hard southern politician. She gets here the end of next week.

One of the best of the late F. Scott Fitzgerald's novels of the late jazz era, "Tender Is the Night," has been bought by David Selznick as a showcase for the talents of either Jennifer Jones or Dorothy McGuire. Personally, I'm stringing with Dorothy to get it since she's more the type of Fitzgerald heroine and Jennifer Jones' schedule is, if anything, overcrowded. Bookshelves have been commenting for some time on the revival of the Fitzgerald reading fad. Now the movies have caught it, too. For another of his best sellers, "The Great Gatsby," will be filmed by Paramount with Alan Ladd.

What's in a name? Ask Bill Elliott. Ever since Republic dignified his name to William Elliott on the credit sheets, his stock has gone up—not only with the fans but with the critics.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

By DOROTHY MANNERS

HOLLYWOOD July 12—Wonderful news that a Merkel, so ill a ago that she despaired of ever being able to continue her career, is completely recovered and signed for the top female role of Mrs. Claghorn opposite Kenny Delmare in "It's a Joke, Son." Una's story is one of real courage. It is no secret that she went completely to pieces after the tragic death of her mother and was confined to a hospital for months. When she was strong enough to leave she accompanied her father to Florida—and there her real recuperation began.

Mr. Merkel bought a trading schooner operating between Florida and the West Indies and Una worked practically as a deck hand on the trips seeking the hardest physical work she could endure. The recipe was magic because it began to drift back to Hollywood how wonderful she looked and how well she was. When Brynne Foy started casting the Claghorn movie for his Eagle-Lion Company he thought immediately of Una who will be perfect as the "Mrs. Flax" wife of the blow-hard southern politician. She gets here the end of next week.

One of the best of the late F. Scott Fitzgerald's novels of the late jazz era, "Tender in the Night," has been bought by David Selznick as a showcase for the talents of either Jennifer Jones or Dorothy McGuire. Personally, I'm stringing with Dorothy to get it since she's more the type of Fitzgerald heroine and Jennifer Jones' schedule is, if anything, overcrowded. Booksellers have been commenting for some time on the revival of the Fitzgerald reading fad. Now the movies have caught it, too. For another of his best sellers, "The Great Gatsby," will be filmed by Paramount with Alan Ladd.

What's in a name? Ask Bill Elliott. Ever since Republic dignified his name to William Elliott on the credit sheets, his stock has gone up—not only with the fans but with the lighted candles.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Ursuline Academy and Peikner, of Ohio state university, Columbus. He is employed by the International Mineral and Chemical Company with headquarters near Cincinnati.

She has been a member of St. Paul's church, since coming to Cumberland and took an active part in all its activities until the last few years.

She is in perfectly good health and is "very fit," keeping up on her reading of current events. She is intensely interested in the affairs of Cumberland and the entire world.

One of town guests here for the celebration were Mrs. Charles Shriver, Baltimore, a niece; Mrs. Milton B. Christ, a granddaughter, and her children, Marjory and Carl, Thurmont; Mrs. A. S. LaPollette, Mrs. J. A. VanDiene and son James, Kenova, W. Va., intimate friends. Her granddaughter, Mrs. Bruce Fable with her son, Erick, are visiting in Stone Harbor, N. J., and Mrs. Charles A. Williams, Alexandria, Va., were unable to attend.

Downgrade Trend Shown By Steels, Aviation And Some Industrials

NEW YORK, July 12 (AP)—Stocks with scattered exceptions, took the downgrade in today's market on the best activity in two weeks.

Steels, a few aviation and assorted industrials led the decline which got under way after an early selective recovery attempt faltered. Losses ran to 2 or more points at the worst. There were several dips of 5 or 10 by "thin" issues. A little support arrived in the final hour and extreme setbacks were reduced in most cases.

Transfers of 1,130,000 shares compared with 990,000 Thursday and were the largest since July 1.

Lockheed and Transcontinental and Western Air were off about 4 each to 1946 lows but both came back at the last and Lockheed ended down 2 1/2 at $29.12 and T. and W. A. was off 2 1/2 at $46.50.

Prominent losers included Allied Chemical, off 5 at $29.50; Steel, off 5 at $23.50; Woolen preferred 5 1/2 at $165.50, du Pont 3 at $214.50 and Chrysler 2 1/2 at $123.87.

Others in the minus ranks were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Glenn Martin, American Smelting, American Water Works, American Telephone, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Baltimore and Ohio and Chesapeake and Ohio.

Equitable Office Building held a gain of 1 1/2 at $48.70 on 100,300 shares. Improved was also seen in the Sugar and National City Lines, United States Rubber, Boeing, United Aircraft, Consolidated Edison and Sperry.

In the minus ranks of the Curb were Brown-Purman Distillers, Cities Service, Rome Cable, Cuban Atlantic Sugar and National City Lines. Turnover here was 350,000 shares versus 350,000 yesterday.

Long-term United States government bonds closed with losses ranging to around 10-32 of a point in the wake of announcement by some banks of an increase in interest rates on loans to dealers and brokers in securities.

Short-term government obligations in the over-the-counter market tended upward.

The long-term issues dipped sharply at the outset of trade but came back and most leveled off a few 32ds below the previous close.

Sales of $4,330,000 compared with $3,230,000 Thursday.

 only a certain amount," the governor said.

He stressed his contention that state courts would have to be convinced that a grave emergency existed which made necessary such a precedent-breaking law.

"We will have to show the judges that an emergency existed—a grave emergency—if we want to justify the law before them," he said.

Various delegates declared that working people were faced with great rent increases as well as evictions and that complaints were general along with "feelings of tension and uncertainty."

Earlier Governor O'Connor said he would appoint fair rent commissions throughout the state.

The governor was advised by the attorney general that he had no power to issue an executive order on rent control but that the general assembly could pass a constitutional rent control law if a "grave emergency" was shown to exist.

Foreign Ministers

 again went over the five draft treaties for Italy, Finland and the Balkans and sent them back to their deputies to make some final changes before next Wednesday.

The ministers, allotting certain Italian naval vessels to Yugoslavia and Greece, agreed that Greece should receive a medium cruiser to replace one sunk by the Italians during the war and Yugoslavia should be given fighting ships aggregating 5,000 tons, of which at least 3,000 tons should be in fighting condition.

Then Evin told the council there were eight points in the Italian and Balkan treaties that did not satisfy his government and that he would not sign any peace treaty until the points were satisfied, the British informant said.

The British source listed the points as including the Danube question, the disposition of United Nations property in Italy, compensation for damage to allied property in enemy countries, the handling of industrial, literary and artistic property rights and a provision for "most favored nation" treatment in aviation and British property in the Balkans.

The ministers agreed on the form of setting up a committee to draft the internationalization of Trieste, but a split between Molotov and the Western powers again appeared when Byrnes proposed that Yugoslavia be required to pledge a "human rights" document for Italians in the areas ceded to Yugoslavia.

The senate action came at the close of a session which began at noon yesterday and continued into the small hours of the morning. The final vote came at 1:51 a. m., EST, and the Senate recessed at 1:58 until noon. It had been in session two minutes short of 14 hours.

Before the climactic showdown, the chamber crushed a last-ditch attempt by Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) to put OPA back in business as it was before June 30. This vote was 52 to 23.

Pepper sought to restore OPA authority with only one major change, the establishment of an independent decontrol board.

During the chamber's marathon session, a proposal by Senator Robertson (R-Wyo) to limit the powers of OPA to rent control alone was beaten on a rollcall vote of 61 to 12. But other amendments, according to special treatment to transportation lines, southern pine pulpwood and cotton textile manufacturers were shouted through.

The Senate appropriations committee meanwhile took another slash at the funds which OPA has requested for another year's operation. The OPA has asked $142,000,000 compared with $150,171,000 which it received for the year ending June 30. The House cut this to $106,000,000. The Senate committee approved $56,000,000.

Rejected on a 46 to 29 vote was an attempt by Senator Wherry (R-Nebr.) to write into the bill a guarantee that distributors, wholesalers and retailers shall get price ceilings high enough to cover their 1940 discounts and markups.

The proposal differed only in details from a provision criticized severely by President Truman in this veto of the original OPA extension bill.

Wherry told his colleagues the amendment would prevent any revived OPA from forcing the corner grocery or drug store to absorb increased operations costs.

Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.), contended that a pricing provision already in the bill would give more relief to retailers than the Wherry amendment.

Senator Pepper (D-Fla.), then called up a substitute proposal to continue OPA till February 1, 1947, with authority as it existed before June 30, when price controls expired.

Pepper immediately modified the proposal, however, to call for the establishment of an independent board which could order price controls lifted from specific commodities.

Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.), battled vigorously against the exemption for grain and feed and forced two roll-call votes. But with the opposition riding high, other amendments were whooped through by voice votes.

Other Amendments Passed
 Meat, poultry, milk, dairy products, petroleum and other items were specifically exempted from price ceilings even before the grain and tobacco amendments.

Then, on voice votes, these further amendments were tacked on:

1. A provision that any ceiling on southern pine used for pulpwood must be as high as that on timber from other areas. This was by Senator Russell (D-Ga.), who said former ceilings on southern wood were as much as $4 a cord below that for other sections.

2. A provision that any ceiling requiring a grain elevator to require (those whose operations go straight through from raw cotton to finished product), to charge less than others. Senator Johnson (D-Sc.) one of the sponsors, said the OPA last February ordered a three per cent price differential against such concerns, and contended it was discriminatory.

3. A ban against the Commodity Corporation's paying more than 3.675 cents a pound for imported sugar. Senator Murdock (D-Utah), said an agreement was reached between the corporation and representatives of the domestic sugar industry on the limitation.

4. A revision of the amendment dealing with manufacturers' and processors' costs to cover service and transportation industries under the same provisions. It was pressed by Senator Radcliffe (D-Md) and accepted by Barkley. Senators explained the OPA often intervened in rate cases where railroads, bus lines and others sought higher fares.

Tobacco Amendment Adopted
 The tobacco amendment, covering cigars, cigarettes and all tobacco products as well as the raw commodity, was offered by Senator Hoey (D-NC) and adopted quickly on a voice vote.

The grain amendment was introduced originally by Senator Bridges (R-NH), with the primary purpose of encouraging greater output of poultry and livestock feed. Barkley sought to raise a point of order against it and Bridges changed it so that it would apply to feed but not grain.

Senator Overton (D-La.), however, offered Bridges' original amendment, applying to both grain and feed, as a substitute, and this was adopted on a roll call vote of 48 to 26. Then on a technicality a second vote was taken, with the result 45 to 35.

Smith had "bad feeling" toward him since that time, Gussler testified, and once threatened "to kill me or run me out of town."

Early last May, Gussler related, he entered the plant electric control room by prying off a board and rigged the explosive charge under the desk and wired it to the switch.

The plan was not carried out for about six weeks.

 testified that complaints were made by telephone by Celenese plant officials before Donovan returned to the field, Chapman said he called Donovan in, and reprimanded him severely.

The defense witnesses included fellow workmen of Donovan at the plant. They said the ship had not flown over the plant when they saw it, but none of them could testify that they saw the ship all the time it was in the area. Some of the men were inside buildings they declared, and peered out of the windows when they heard the plane.

The examiner told Donovan the regulations are being enforced rigidly, to prevent accidents in the air or to people on the ground as well as pilots.

Examiner Potter said he had taken into account the fact that Donovan has a record of 87 combat missions as a P-47 pilot against the Germans. He also said he realized Donovan was an officer with rank of first lieutenant, had been a flight commander, holds the Distinguished Flying Cross, Air Medal with eleven clusters and a Distinguished Unit Citation.

Potter said he had no personal desire to penalize or punish any flier, and also considered the fact that this was the first complaint against Donovan. His decision to "ground" the pilot for 90 days, was a minimum penalty, but would also serve as a warning to other pilots in this vicinity that low flying and stunting over congested areas will not be tolerated.

Donovan surrendered his license and accepted the decision.

MY NEIGHBOR'S GARDEN
My neighbor's garden is like a sudden gay laugh bursting unexpectedly from the woods which lie about us.

Our homes are built on a short, delightful street, fringed with forest on the top of San Francisco's tallest peak. To the east and far beneath us the sunrise breaks slowly in an amber tide. From the west and south comes the faint roar of surf filtering through the tall, gray eucalyptus trees.

Most of our houses are built on two levels. First there are the garages on the street level—then the homes, higher up. As on every California street there are flowers dripping, bursting and awaying from every inch of earth. But my neighbor's gay little garden outshines them all. For, of all places, she has built it on top of her garage!

Formerly the garage was the usual squat, square, flat roofed brick affair. Then my neighbor brought earth—not more than twelve inches at the deepest part—and built a low retaining wall to keep it in place.

For a time, then, I was away, seeing only the monotonous gray and white of hospital wards and corridors—conscious only of the grim, relentless struggle against pain. I had almost forgotten color in those endless, dim, hushed hours. But at last I was carried out through the frightening blur and uproar of the city streets. And when the car stopped, there was my neighbor's garden laughing down at me, stretching its warm and fragrant arms to help my crippled feet and steady my faltering heart.

I doubt if the well and light-footed ever appreciates God's gift of flowers. They move too quickly on their busy way. They accept flowers casually as part of their rightful setting. They do not stop to realize that they are living creatures with a distinct and dramatic service—a service which touches our human struggles more than any other ritual in our lives.

My neighbor's garden is very small—barely two and a half feet wide—yet in that narrow stretch of earth she has assembled a jeweled treasure of color. Everything is there, every patterned petal, every shade and shape. Tall, swaying spikes of sapphire delphiniums—the coral flame of massed geraniums—a mat of mesembryanthemum from the Mediterranean as barbarically splendid as some old embroidered Cuban shawl, garnet and gold, violet and lacquered jade, turquoise deep fringed with scarlet, lemon, heliotrope and rose. All breathing in their mingled fragrance like no incense on earth.

I know of course it is no supernatural miracle—simply the product of one woman's patient, plodding feet, wise fingers and devoted heart. But watching her at work, during my slow rebirth, I'd bless her daily for I know she has brought healing to a desperate heart as surely as she has bedded beauty on the top of an old garage.

I think we should live with flowers and watch their growth far more than we do, particularly those who are sad or sick or scarred by bitter loss. The very seeds of flowers have a stranger reviving power. Such small, dark emblems, sealed within themselves and buried within the earth, they seemed finished—so definitely gone. And then, during some is split. Where there was death, Life walks again. And hope!

Yes, I am sure we need the ministry of flowers far more deeply than we realize. For seeds are more than seeds. They are a service, sacred as the Host. They are a challenge between life and death. They are a vow that death shall never triumph over life. They are a promise kept. And watching them, we rise from our own tomb and find, in them, the faith we thought we'd lost.

Girl Of 15 Lets Bump Of Conceit Run Away With Her
By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 15 years old and like a boy very much who is very shy. He has a girl and has been going with her steady for three months. Ever since the first time I saw him, which was a year ago, I have liked him very much.

I have a boy friend and am going steady for about a month. I like him very much, but not as much as I do this other boy. I don't know how this other boy feels about me as he is so shy he won't say hello when he meets me on the street. I have given up many boys for him.

I don't think I am good-looking, but my boy friend thinks I am. I don't know what boys see in me.

guess it is just personality. My girl friends envy me because I can get these boys if I just say the word, and they can't. Do you think I could ever have a chance with this other boy? What do you suggest I do to try to get him?

POPULAR AND LOVESICK
Whoa, sister! Let's back up and start over again. Because it seems to me your bump of conceit is running away with you, and you're not making very good sense into the bargain.

You say all you have to do to get any boy you want is "just to say the word." Yet here you are, asking me to tell you how to get a boy who won't notice you? Your stories just don't hang together, do they?

And of course if I could give you a step-by-step program for getting this boy away from the girl, he's "going steady" with, I wouldn't do it. Would you like me to tell another girl how to get your boy friend away from you? Of course you wouldn't.

You ask me what I'd suggest. Well, what I suggest is that you mind your own business and let the boy friends of other girls alone. Also that you don't let that head of yours get too big for your hat. Otherwise, you may be surprised some day to find yourself put in the shade by some girl that the boys think has even more personality than you have!

My neighbor's garden is like a sudden gay laugh bursting unexpectedly from the woods which lie about us.

Our homes are built on a short, delightful street, fringed with forest on the top of San Francisco's tallest peak. To the east and far beneath us the sunrise breaks slowly in an amber tide. From the west and south comes the faint roar of surf filtering through the tall, gray eucalyptus trees.

Most of our houses are built on two levels. First there are the garages on the street level—then the homes, higher up. As on every California street there are flowers dripping, bursting and swaying from every inch of earth. But my neighbor's gay little garden outshines them all. For, of all places, she has built it on top of her garage!

Formerly the garage was the usual squat, square, flat roofed brick affair. Then my neighbor brought earth—not more than twelve inches at the deepest part—and built a low retaining wall to keep it in place.

For a time, then, I was away, seeing only the autonomous gray and white of hospital wards and corridors conscious only of the grin, relentless struggle against pain I had almost forgotten color in those endless, dim, hushed hours. But at last I was carried out through the frightening blur and uproar of

I doubt if the well and light-footed ever appreciates God's gift of flowers. They move too quickly on their busy way. They accept flowers casually as part of their rightful setting. They do not stop to realize that they are living creatures with a distinct and dramatic service—a service which touches our human struggles more than any other ritual in our lives.

My neighbor's garden is very small—barely two and a half feet wide—yet in that narrow stretch of earth she has assembled a jeweled treasure of color. Everything is there, every patterned petal, every shade and shape. ## The Big Secret

This little girl is telling her playmate a "big" secret. It is nothing important, of course; merely the innocent fun of happy childhood. Soon these care-free days will pass and the two little girls will face the sterner problems of life.

Much of the simplicity and innocence of childhood can be preserved in a favorable environment. The cross that so often appears in later life is due to wrong impressions gained during these early years, when the little minds are plastic.

It is the task of the home to inculcate ideals of right thinking and right living in the minds of children; for the homes of our children build the characters of the people and shape the destinies of the nation.

We must build again our family life in America, and re-establish its foundations on the solid virtues which make lives beautiful and strong. We must create conditions in which the simplicity and innocence of childhood will be reflected in the after years.

Religion is the guiding light of such a home, and God's eternal inspiration.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend and support the church of his choice. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church on Sunday.

World Trade in Foreign Policy To Be Discussed

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
NEW YORK, July 12.—With the latest additions, the Saturday night schedule of the network is just about in shape for the rest of summer. Three replacements show up tomorrow night.

NBC has a couple. At 7 in place of Life of Riley there is to be a new show with a "stars of tomorrow" theme. At 7:30 for Truth or Consequences comes Honeydew in New York, a night edition of the morning feature, which is continuing. It will be the same type of program as the daytime, with married folks and those planning to become so as guests.

The third one is for CBS at 7:30, stepping in for Master of the Town. It will be a revival of Danny O'Neil and his guests, giving him a night series in addition to his early morn daily.

The Boston symphony's Berkshire music festival, to continue into August will have its opening broadcast on ABC at 8:30, for an hour. There will be three soloists.

Curtain Time, now an NBC feature at 9:30, will present "The Great Unkissed" as the second of its light mysteries in its new schedule.

Sec. of Commerce Wallace and Assistant Sec. of State Clayton will discuss world trade in Foreign Policy for NBC at 6, the schedule provides.

Horse racing is in two divisions this time. MBS, ABC and CBS at 3 will have the Butler Handicap at the Jamaica, N. Y., track, while NBC at 5 is to put on the Arlington futurity at Chicago, Clem McCarty doing the talk.

County Fair of CBS celebrates its first anniversary at 12:30 p. m.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear sister
and daughter, Edna Keller, who passed away two years ago today, July 13, 1944.
Remembrance is a golden chain
Death tries to break, but all in vain;
To have, to love, and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of our heart.
The years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never—
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.
You bade me one last farewell; you said good-bye to none.
Your dear heart ceased to beat,
And suddenly you were gone.
And only those who have lost can tell
The pain of parting without farewell.

Bodily missed by MOTHER, BROTHERS AND SISTERS.
7-13-11-N

KELLER—In sad, but loving memory of my wife, Edna Estelle, who passed away
two years ago today, July 13, 1944.
"MY DARLING"
You fought the pain so bravely,
Your head, you did not bend.
I kept the watch with you, dear Edna,
Yes, even to the end.
I watched and waited long in vain,
God grant some day, we'll meet again.

Embrined within my memory,
Are fondest thoughts of you.
Your kindly eyes—your loving smile,
Your heart so good and true.
The time will never, never dim,
My fondest heart's regret.
At loss of you, my darling,
And I never will forget.

LOVING HUSBAND, ELMER.

We take this means to expressing our sincere thanks to our relatives, friends and neighbors who were so kind to us during the illness and in our bereavement at the death of our beloved husband and father, Charles M. Brooks. We also wish to thank those who sent floral tributes and offered their care for the funeral. We express deep appreciation to Rev. H. K. Himmer and Rev. R. L.
Greynolds and the ladies of the Methodist church for their sympathetic consideration.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear sister
and daughter Edna Keller, who passed away two years ago today, July 13th, 1944.
Remembrance is a golden chain
Death tries to break, but all in vain;
To have, to love, and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of our heart.
The years may wipe out many things,
But this the wife will never forget—
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.
You had no one to last farewell; you
said good-bye to none.
Your dear heart ceased to beat,
and suddenly you were gone.
And only those who have lost can tell
The pain of parting without farewell.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER, BROTHERS AND SISTERS.

KELLER—In sad, but loving memory of my wife, Edna Estela, who passed away
two years ago today, July 13, 1944.

"MY DARLING"
You fought the pain so bravely,
Your head, you did not bend.
I kept the watch with you, dear Edna,
Yes, even to the end.
I watched and waited long in vain,
God grant some day, we'll meet again.
Enshrined within my memory,
Are fondest thoughts of you.
You kindly eyes—your loving smile,
Your heart so fond and true,
And time will never, never dim,
My heart's true love, my dear Edna.
At loss of you, my darling,
And I never will forget.

LOVING HUSBAND, ELMER.

Walter T. Donovan Charles W. House Is Grounded Rites Are Planned By Air Board

Pilot's License Suspended For 90 Days On Charge Of Low Flying

Walter Thomas DONOVAN, 404 Deatur street, an employee of the Celanese Corporation of America, and local aviator, was "grounded" yesterday when his commercial pilot's license was suspended at the first hearing by a representative of the Civil Aeronautics Board, ever conducted in Cumberland County.

Donovan was charged with violating aeronautic rules and regulations, and was specifically charged with flying his privately owned plane under 1,000 feet altitude over the plant of the Celanese Corporation of America, stunting over the plant, and reckless and careless flying.

The trial examiner, Russell Potter, Washington, D. C., representing the Civil Aeronautics Authority, found Donovan had flown over the Celanese plant at an altitude under 1,000 feet, executed acrobatics at an altitude above 1,000 feet, but had not been reckless or careless in his flying.

The hearing, which was in the nature of a court trial, was conducted in the grand jury room of the federal building here. The trial examiner, Potter, is a former army aviator, with the rank of captain, and about 90 combat missions to his credit. He has one of the best records in the country as a B-17 pilot during the war, and flew 87 missions in that type aircraft.

The prosecutor, known as the "administrator," was E. P. Noggle, Washington, D. C., also of the Civil Aeronautics Board. Noggle was a pilot in the army during the war and held the rank of commander. He also has a long list of combat missions and a number of decorations to his credit.

Edward J. Ryan, local attorney acted as counsel and defense attorney for Donovan, and presented his defense witnesses in an effort to prove that Donovan had not violated any of the Civil Air regulations.

The case resulted from a complaint by Celanese officials here on March 21, 1946, when a plane, identified as the No. 3745, allegedly piloted and did barrel rolls and loops over the Celanese plant. Witnesses said he flew to within 300 or 400 feet of the plant.

It was brought out at the investigation that about 4,000 persons were working at the plant at the time, and there are always large quantities of highly inflammable and volatile liquids at the plant.

Donovan denied he had flown over the plant, or started over the area. He said his ship was in the air that day, and he flew one of his fellow workmen as a passenger over the area, to show him his home at Cresapton from the air.

The young aviator told the examiner he had done a loop and a slow roll in the vicinity of the plant at an altitude of more than 1,500 feet, but had never started over a congested area. He also maintained he had not made any "power dives" at the plant buildings and had flown at an altitude of 1,500 to 3,000 feet during his entire flight that afternoon.

Capt. D. S. Taylor, Police Sgt. C. M. Glover, and Patrolman James E. Kelly, all of the Celanese police force, testified they watched the plane making power dives and passes over the plant for several minutes. The men were at different points and using maps and photos, indicated where they were at the time and what they saw. They agreed in their testimony that the plane dived to within 300 to 400 feet of the administration building, did several loops and rolls over the plant, and flew from east to west and north to south back and forth over the plant, several times. Officer Kelly said he read and noted the numbers on the plane. Sgt. Glover also said he noted the numbers, but could not remember only the last two figures.

Each of the officers described the plane, and agreed in the description as to color, type and shape. Their testimony also coincided regarding altitude and possible speeds.

Has Fine War Record

Harry E. Skiles Granted Divorce In Circuit Court

Harry E. Skiles, 22, 104 Deatur street, was granted an absolute divorce yesterday in circuit court. Stating said the local office will serve as headquarters for Allegheny, Garrett, Washington and Frederick counties. He will work with local committees in various sections of those counties to survey housing needs of veterans and to encourage building so that veterans can be more adequately housed.

Application blanks for priorities for building materials will be available at the office for veterans' housing agents in Baltimore.

Stating said that the local office will not act as a housing placement agency but will be concerned with securing construction materials to increase home construction for veterans.

Although the opening date has not been set, Steding said the office will be open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a. m. until noon on Saturdays.

12-Year-Old Girl Is Slightly Hurt In Car-Bicycle Crash

A 12-year-old local girl was slightly injured Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock when the bicycle she was riding collided with a car at the intersection of Thomas and Lamont streets.

According to the accident report filed by the driver of the car, Mary Ruth Everette, Route 2, Keyser, W. Va., the girl, Marian Baker, 12, 25 Lamont street, was treated by a physician for bruise burns of the right thigh and left chest.

Flood Plan Report Is Received Here

Copies of the complete report of army engineers for the flood control project in Cumberland and Ridgeley, W. Va., with detailed maps of the sections involved, were received yesterday by Mayor Thomas S. Post from Col. Byron Bird, chief of the engineering division, United States Engineer Office, Washington, D. C.

In an accompanying letter, Col. Bird explained that similar copies have been sent to Mayor Odbert R. Poling of Ridgeley and to Fred T. Small, general manager of the Amecle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America, who has taken an active interest in the project.

Since the copies of the report were sent to the city on a loan basis, Mayor Post expressed hope that they could be used in a conference between Ridgeley and Cumberland officials before it is necessary to return them.

The report estimates that 26 to 30 months will be needed to complete all work under the project, stating that contract plans and specifications can probably be completed in nine months. The latter work would require a staff of approximately 48 engineers, designers, field surveyors and drill operators, it was stated.

Suggested allotment of funds by fiscal years to finance the project is as follows:

Fiscal Year	Federal Non-Federal Total
1st	$1,700,000 $1,100,000 $2,800,000
2nd	$1,300,000 375,000 1,675,000
3rd	$1,200,000 45,000 1,245,000

Man Is Captured While Attempting To Rob Market

A 22-year-old man who was captured late last night by a Maryland state policeman inside the Mt. Savage, A. and P. market he was attempting to rob is being held in the city jail for questioning by the state's attorney this morning.

The prisoner was identified as James Herman Dicken by Trooper G. M. Rotruck when booked at police headquarters shortly after 11 p. m.

Trooper Rotruck said Dicken broke a glass from the front window and entered the market. A neighbor woman, hearing the crash of the falling glass, called Andrew Lennox, manager of the store, he added.

The store manager was preparing to go to bed when he received the word and hastily dressed and rushed to the store. Lennox, Trooper Rotruck related, peered into the store and saw a man crawling on the floor near the safe.

Knowing that the thief was trapped since there was only one entrance to the store, Lennox then notified the LaVale barracks. Trooper Rotruck was summoned from Cresapton at 10:35 p. m.

A few minutes later, Lennox opened the door of the market, and he and Trooper Rotruck entered and found the man lying under a counter near the safe.

Trooper Rotruck said Dicken had in his possession a small amount of change and a $1 bill which he asserted belonged to him.

However, the state trooper said the store manager declared the money had been taken from the safe, and the order of the store.

Trooper Rotruck said Dicken refused to give his address but said the man was registered by Local Board No. 2 here, and said he believed Dicken's home is in Cumberland, Ridgeley or Mt. Savage.

Police To Learn How To Operate New Resuscitator

All members of the Cumberland Police Department will receive detailed instructions within the next few weeks in the use of the improved model resuscitator which was purchased recently for the department. Oscar A. Eyerman, chief of police, announced yesterday.

The instructions will be given by a representative of the E. and J. Company and Tech. Sgt. John M. Newhouse.

Sgt. Newhouse described the life saving device as far superior to the former machine which is credited with saving the lives of at least a score of Cumberlanders.

Besides being lighter and more compact, and therefore easier to move to the scene of the disaster, the new combination resuscitator-inhalator is especially valuable because it has equipment to take care of two patients at one time.

Many Machines Available

Since similar equipment, Sgt. Newhouse said, is available at both hospitals, the LaVale state police barracks and at most volunteer fire departments of this area, treatment is available in Allegheny county within a matter of minutes.

Speed, both Chief Eyerman and Sgt. Newhouse stressed, is all important in the treatment of all cases of drowning, asphyxiation, smoke and gas poisoning, sunstroke and electrical shocks.

Eyerman stressed particularly that police should be called at once in all cases of emergency and declared that "if you can't remember that the police headquarters phone is 1680, just ask the telephone operator for the police and tell her that it is an emergency."

Coal Car Shortage Believed Improving By Rail Officials

Some relief in the coal car shortage along the Baltimore and Ohio railroad was predicted for next week by H. F. Wyatt, division superintendent, and most orders for cars are now being filled, he declared.

Some mines along the railroad were forced to close down during the past 10 days because of a car shortage, created when coal cars were not unloaded promptly by receivers and numerous cars were tied up in the Great Lakes area, due to Canadian longshoremen's strike, it was indicated.

Joseph M. Miller, superintendent of the Western Maryland railway, commenting on the situation last night said, "it is a good thing Sunday comes once every week, because we just met our car orders today". ## Pilot's License Suspended For 90 Days On Charge Of Low Flying

Walter Thomas Donovan, 404 Decatur street, an employee of the Celanese Corporation of America, and local aviator, was "grounded" yesterday when his commercial pilot's license was suspended at the first hearing by a representative of the Civil Aeronautics Board, over conducted in Cumberland.

Donovan was charged with violating aeronautics rules and regulations, and was specifically charged with flying his privately owned plane under 1,000 feet altitude over the plant of the Celanese Corporation of America, stunting over the plant, and careless and reckless flying.

The trial examiner, Russell Potter, Washington, D. C., representing the Civil Aeronautics Board, found Donovan guilty of the charge. Donovan was suspended at the first hearing by a representative of the Civil Aeronautics Board, over conducted in Cumberland.

Several Witnesses Called

The hearing, which was in the nature of a court trial, was conducted in the grand jury room of the federal building here. The trial examiner, Potter, is a former army aviator, with the rank of captain, and about 30 combat missions to his credit. He has one of the best records in the country as a B-17 pilot during the war, and flew 87 missions in that type aircraft.

The prosecutor, known as these hearings as "the administrator," found Donovan guilty of the charge. Donovan was suspended at the first hearing by a representative of the Civil Aeronautics Board, over conducted in Cumberland.

The trial examiner, Russell Potter, Washington, D. C., representing the Civil Aeronautics Board, found Donovan guilty of the charge. Donovan was suspended at the first hearing by a representative of the Civil Aeronautics Board, over conducted in Cumberland.

The case resulted from a complaint by Celanese officials here. It was brought out at the investigation that about 4,000 persons were working at the plant at the time, and there are always large quantities of highly inflammable and volatile liquids at the plant.

Donovan denied he had flown over the plant, or stunted over the area. He said his ship was in the air that day, and he flew one of his fellow workers as a passenger over the area, to show him his home at Chesterton from the air.

The young aviator told the examiner he had done a loop and a slow roll in the vicinity of the plant at an altitude of more than 1,500 feet, but had never stunted over a congested area. He also maintained he had not done a loop and a slow roll at the plant buildings and had flown at an altitude of 1,500 to 2,000 feet during his entire flight that afternoon.

Capt. D. S. Taylor, Police Sgt. C. M. Glover, and Patrolman James E. Kelly, all of the Celanese police force, testified they watched the plane making dives and passes over the plant for several minutes. The men were at different points and took maps and photos, indicated where they were at the time and what they saw. They agreed in their testimony that the plane dived to within 300 to 400 feet of the administration building, did several loops and rolls over the plant, and flew from east to west and north to south back and forth over the plant, several times. Officer Kelly said he read and noted the numbers on the plane. Sgt. Glover also said he noted the numbers but could not remember only the last two figures.

Each of the officers described the plane, and agreed in the description as to color, type and shape. Their testimony also coincided regarding altitude and possible speeds.

The first petition, whose signers are members of the Seventh Day Adventist church, located at 41 Oak street, requested the license be denied because the congregation meets for services on Saturday, a day when beer would be sold, causing a menace to the congregation.

The petition also stated that such an environment as is normally found around beer halls isn't desirable in the church area.

Freno, a World War II veteran, recently purchased the business from M. L. Mosteller and is now seeking to have the license transferred to his name.

Court house attaches recalled that Mosteller's first request for such a license was turned down, because of petitions protesting the sale of beer in that area. But a second petition was granted. Later members of the congregation said they were not notified and did not see notice that a second request was filed.

The second petition is made up of persons living in the neighborhood of the store.

The neighbors contend that there is already sufficient number of places where beer is sold in the community, and second that children would be in the grocery store when beer was sold. The neighborhood petition contains 21 signers and the congregation petitions is signed by eleven.

Va., with detailed maps of the sections involved, were received yesterday by Mayor Thomas S. Post from Lt. Col. Byron Bird, chief of the engineering division, United States Engineer Office, Washington, D. C.

In an accompanying letter, Col. Bird explained that similar copies have been sent to Mayor Odbert R. Poling of Ridgeley and to Fred T. Small, general manager of the Anacostia plant of the Celanese Corporation of America, who has taken an active interest in the project.

Since the copies of the report were sent to the city on a loan basis, Mayor Post expressed hope that they could be used in a conference between Ridgeley and Cumberland officials before it is necessary to return them.

The report estimates that 26 to 30 months will be needed to complete all work under the project, stating that contract plans and specifications can probably be completed in nine months. ## Man Is Captured While Attempting To Rob Market

A 22-year-old man who was captured late last night by a Maryland state policeman inside the Mt. Savage A. and P. market he was attempting to rob is being held in the city jail for questioning by the state's attorney this morning.

The prisoner was identified as James Herman Dicken by Trooper G. M. Rotruck when booked at police headquarters shortly after 11 p. m.

Trooper Rotruck said Dicken broke a glass from the front window and entered the market. A neighbor, hearing the crash of the falling glass, called Andrew Lennox, manager of the store, he added.

The store manager was preparing to go to bed when he received the word and hastily dressed and rushed to the store. Lennox, Trooper Rotruck related, peered into the store and saw a man crawling on the floor near the safe.

Knowing that the thief was wrapped since there was only one entrance to the store, Lennox then notified the LaVale barracks. Trooper Rotruck was summoned from Cresapton at 10:35 p. m.

A few minutes later, Lennox opened the door of the market, and he and Trooper Rotruck entered and found the man lying under a counter next to the safe.

Trooper Rotruck said Dicken had in his possession a small amount of change and a $1 bill which he asserted belonged to him.

However, the state trooper said, the store manager declared the money had been taken from the rifed cash register of the store.

Trooper Rotruck said Dicken refused to give his address but said the man was registered by Local Board No. 2 here, and said he believed Dicken's home is in Cumberland, Ridgeley or Mt. Savage.

Police To Learn How To Operate New Resuscitator

Eyerman Urges Citizens To Call Promptly When Dis- aster Strikes

All members of the Cumberland Police Department will receive detailed instructions within the next few weeks in the use of the improved model resuscitator, which was purchased recently for the department, Oscar A. Eyerman, chief of police, announced yesterday.

The instructions will be given by a representative of the E. and J. Company and Tech. Sgt. John M. Newhouse.

Sgt. Newhouse described the life saving device as far superior to the former machine which is credited with saving the lives of at least a score of Cumberlanders.

Besides being lighter and more compact, and therefore easier to move to the scene of the disasters, the new combination resuscitator-inhalator is especially valuable because it has equipment to take care of two patients at one time.

Many Machines Available

Since similar equipment, Sgt. Newhouse said, is available at both hospitals, the LaVale state police barracks and at most volunteer fire departments of this area, treatment is available in Allegheny county within a matter of minutes.

Speed, both Chief Eyerman and Sgt. Newhouse stressed, is all important in the treatment of all cases of drowning, asphyxiation, smoke and gas poisoning, sunstroke and electrical shock.
